The Garrett County Humane Society's 18th annual Dog-Gone FUNdraiser will be held on Saturday, July 9, at Garrett College. Admission is free. All dogs must be on a leash, and purchases must be made with cash or checks.

"The new starting time of 11 a.m. will allow guests time to meet representatives from animal friendly groups, learn about various kinds of dogs at the Meet the Breed stations, or bid on items donated by area businesses in the silent auction," noted GCHS president Lisa Baker. "There will also be demonstrations, a canine costume contest, cash-and-carry table, a cash raffle, and a short agility course your dog can try out."

The live auction features big ticket and celebrity/sports team items. Items up for bid will be posted on the GCHS Facebook page as they are collected.

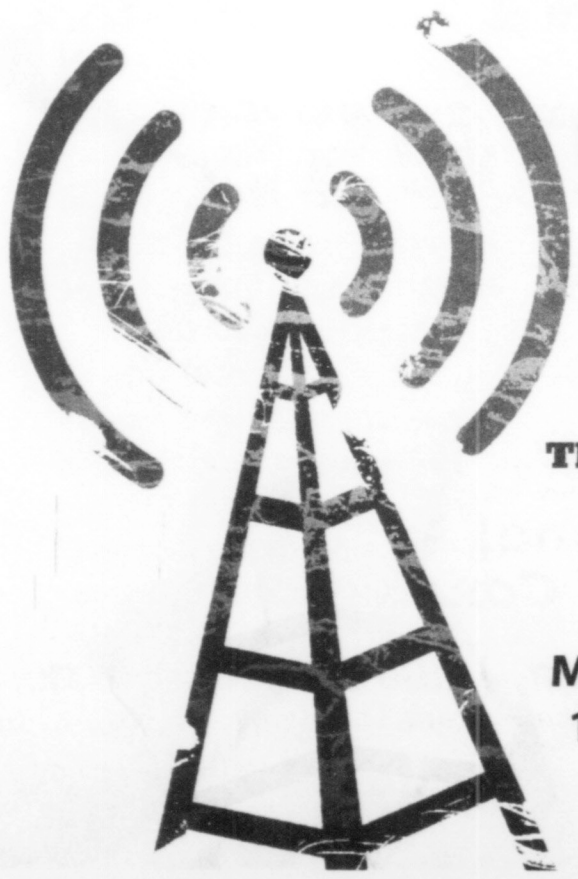

"We already have a Rocky Gap golf package, two Wisp Resort adventure passes, an autographed Steelers photo, and two tickets to West Virginia Public Theatre performances," Baker said. "We always have a big variety of items in the auction. Most of the time I bid on a few myself."

Raffle tickets are being sold at Traders Coffee House, Deep Creek Lake, and Countryside Animal Hospital, located south of Oakland off Rt. 219.

BANANA NANNA FO FANNA FEE FY FO FANNA – Shelby-nanna is hoping for a win at the canine costume contest during the 18th annual Dog-Gone FUNdraiser. The event is set for July 9 at Garrett College from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Spruce Forest Notes Hours, Guest Artisans

Spruce Forest Artisan Village is a non-profit organization founded by Dr. Alta Schrock located in Grantsville's Arts & Entertainment District. It is composed of 14 historic structures including a 200-year-old mill, a church, a school house, and nine working artist studios.

The village grounds are always open to the public. Although studio hours during the week vary by artisan, on Friday and Saturday all historic buildings and studios are open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Persons may contact the village via email at info@spruceforest.org with questions, or contact artists directly at the contact information on the website: www.SpruceForest.org.

Spruce Forest offers studio space for three visiting artists per month during the summer and fall season. Guest artists pay a small fee that covers utilities, but then have access to the studio seven days a week for the month. Resident and guest artist studios must be open and artists working on their craft five days a week, during which time artists may sell their wares.

For the 2016 season, the following artists have been scheduled: Shelly Booska, Shelia Brown, Lenore Lancaster, Reita Marks, Mary Byrd, Jamie Pein, and Joan Miller.

Booska, owner of Four Seasons Stitchery in Grantsville, will visit the village for June, July, and August with a variety of quilts and other needful things. She and a team of quilters will be in the Red Shed (to the right of the village entrance) and will be open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. all summer long.

Besides Booska, this year's quilters are Beverly Beard, Joan Chaney, Angie Guthrie, Sue O'Neal, and Katherine Miller.

Shelia Brown, a basket weaver, is a returning guest artist to the village, and will be in the Hochstetler House during the month of July. Brown comes from nearby Preston County, W.Va., and she has been basket weaving for over 27 years. She currently has over 150 designs and also takes custom orders.

Lenore Lancaster, a Prisma colored pencil artist and returning guest artist, will be in Alta's Cabin from August through October. She does intricate colored pencil work of a variety of subjects. She offers private afternoon workshops while in residency at the village and will schedule those upon request.

Persons may contact Lenore at 304-738-3180 for more information.

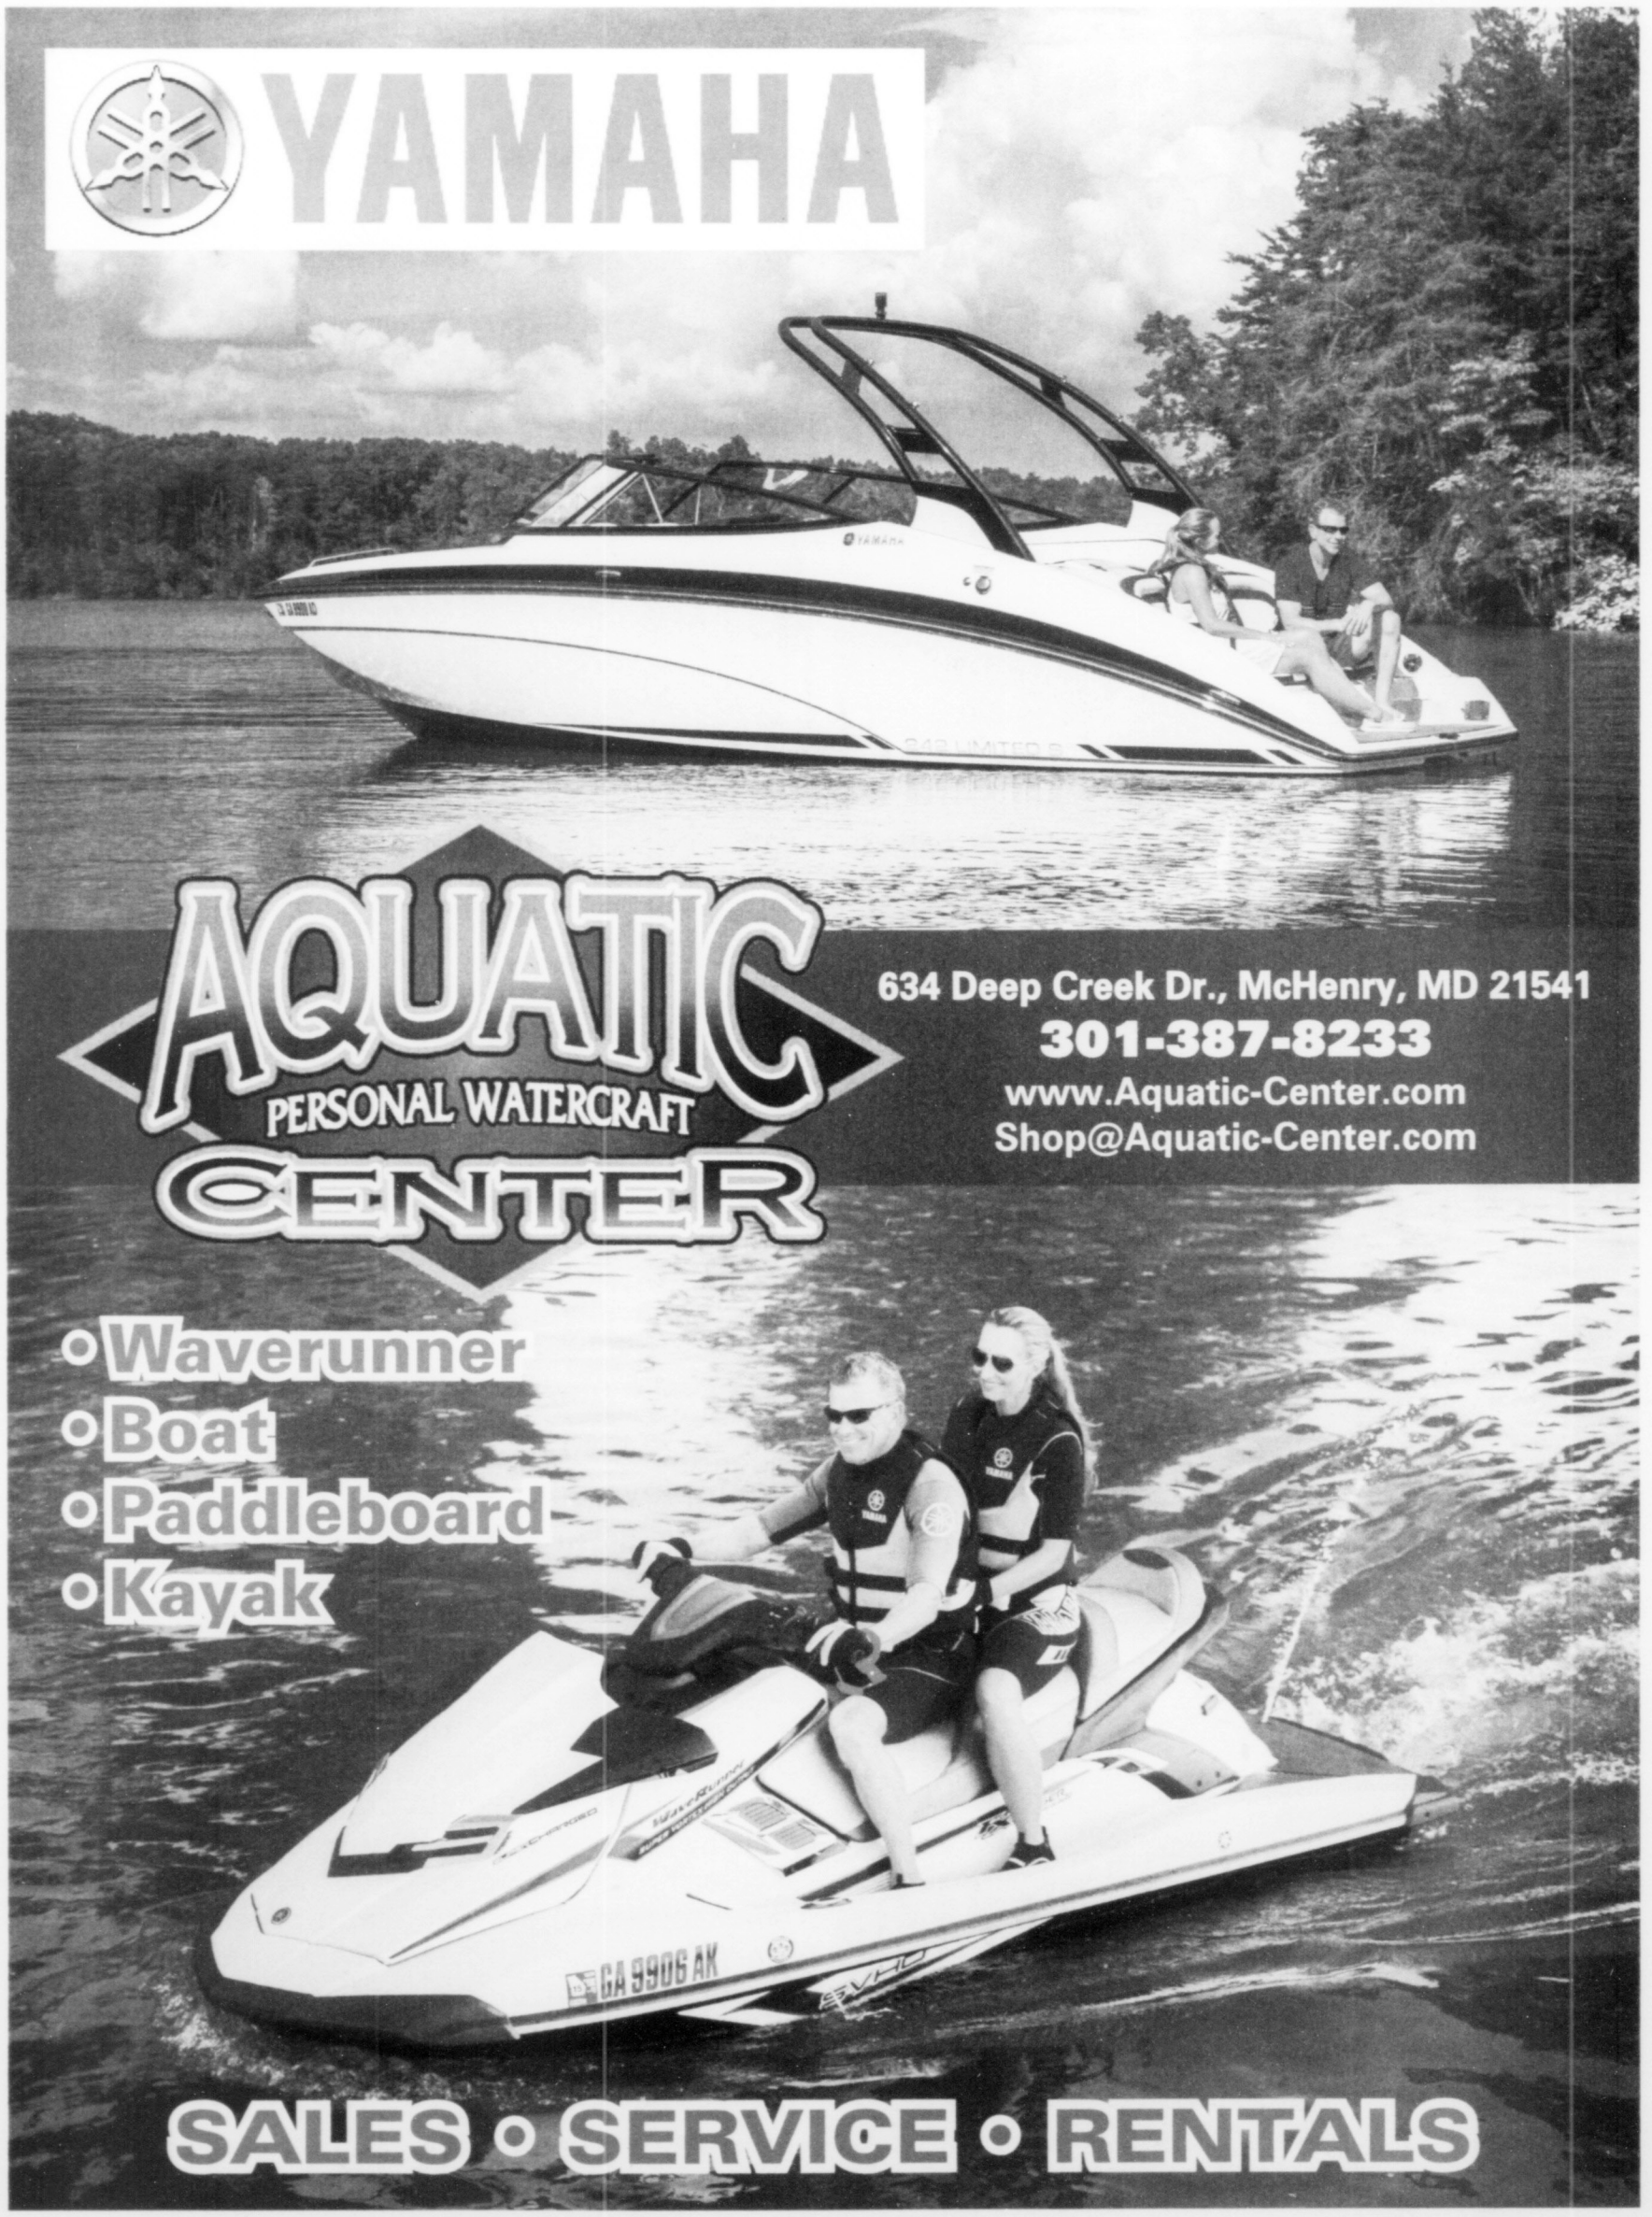

Reita Marks will have paper quilting in the Hochstetler House during the months of June and August. She will offer several one-day workshops.

Mary Byrd, an acrylic painter, former Hallmark Cards designer, and previous guest artist, will return to the red shed in October. She will offer a workshop in Abstract Acrylics on Friday, Sept. 30. For more information, persons may email mary@marybyrd-productions.com.

Jamie Pein, Fripperies creator, is returning to Alta's Cabin for weekends in July. Joining her will be dolls, mermaids, stuffed animals, and mixed media paintings.

Joan Miller will be in the Hochstetler House for the month of October with Shedoes Scherenschnitte, which means "scissor cuts" in German and is the art of paper cutting.

Art In The Park Slated For The Shores Of DCL

The 16th annual Art in the Park exhibit and sale will be held on Saturday, July 9, and Sunday, July 10, on the shores of Deep Creek Lake at the state park. On Saturday, the event hours will be from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., and on Sunday, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

This is a free event for the entire family, and participants are invited to come by car or boat.

"Don't miss this opportunity to meet the artists and take home quality handcrafted artwork created by our local artisans," said an event spokesperson.

Each year 50+ vendors display their works during this juried art event. Available will be jewelry, paintings, photography, pottery, and more.

Food vendors are onsite, as well as children's interpretive events, live animals, and a children's art project sponsored by the Garrett County Arts Council. There will also be a silent auction.

What To Do If You Encounter A Black Bear

Garrett County has a bountiful array of wildlife to enjoy during the summer months, including black bears. The Maryland Department of Natural Resources offers the following information about them and what to do you if you happen to encounter one:

Black bears are large, strong wild animals that should be treated with respect. When in bear country, you should remain alert. Do not approach a bear, and do not feed a bear. Bears that associate food with people can become a threat to your safety.

Avoid a bear encounter. When hiking in bear country, stay alert and warn bears of your presence. Make noise (sing, clap, talk aloud, etc.), especially when you are in or near thick cover. Travel in a group when possible.

If you encounter a bear that is not aware of your presence, back away and leave the area. Give the bear plenty of room. If you spot a bear cub, remain alert. The cub's mother is sure to be near. Again, back away and leave the area.

Should you encounter a bear at close range, speak to the bear in a calm assertive voice. Stay calm and don't run. Remain upright and back away from the bear. Avoid direct eye contact, as the bear may perceive this as a threat. Again, give the bear plenty of room. Don't crowd the bear's personal space.

Black bears may exhibit some unique behaviors when they feel their personal space is being threatened. A crowded bear may huff or make a woofing noise at the threat. They may also swat the ground, pop their jaws, or even bluff charge the perceived threat. When a bear bluff charges, it may stop several yards or just a few feet short of the threat. Remember not to run. Stay calm, remain upright, and back away from the bear.

Bears may also stand upright on their hind legs. This is not a sign of aggression. Bears usually stand upright when they are trying to get a better look at something. Bears rely heavily on their sense of smell, and may also stand upright to better determine the source of a new scent.

It is important to remember that black bear attacks are extremely rare. In Maryland, there are no known cases of a human being attacked by a black bear; however, black bear attacks have occurred elsewhere. It is important to remember that black bears are wild animals and as such are unpredictable. By using common sense and good judgment, we can continue to appreciate the natural beauty of these forest animals at a safe distance.

Annual Country Fest, Auction To Be Held Aug. 27

The 22nd annual Country Fest and Auction will be held on Saturday, Aug. 27, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry from 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Admission and parking are free.

A farm animal petting zoo, pony rides, horse and buggy rides, an aerial candy drop (weather permitting), a pedal tractor pull, hay wagon rides, and a "Barrels of Fun" ride have been scheduled. Beginning at 9:30 a.m., gospel music will also be presented throughout the day.

The first of two auctions will take place beginning at 11 a.m. Crafts, home décor items, framed prints, furniture, and tickets for in-home dinners will be available to bidders. The dinners are prepared by Bittinger Mennonite Church families and are served in their homes to winning bidders.

Demonstrations will be held throughout the day at various locations on the fairgrounds. Visitors will see chair caning, soap making, ice-cream making, apple cider pressing, and horseshoeing and forging. A quilting demonstration will take place from 8:30 a.m. until 1 p.m.

Quilted items will be on display from 8 a.m. until 1 p.m., at which time they will be taken down to be auctioned at 1:30 p.m. Each year, approximately 20 king- or queen-size quilts are auctioned, as well as such smaller items as crib or wall quilts, table runners, and Christmas skirts. All items are hand quilted and locally made.

Food is also featured during the Country Fest. Breakfast will be served from 8 until 10 a.m. on the fairgrounds. The menu will include pancakes, sausage, biscuits, and gravy.

Lunch begins at 11 a.m. Visitors can stop by the "Sandwiches & Such" booth or the Lions Club pavilion, where they will find chicken barbecue dinners.

Additionally, funnel cakes, homemade ice cream, fresh raised doughnuts, cotton candy, and hand-rolled soft pretzels will be offered throughout the day.

Festival goers will also be able to shop. Crafts, books, homemade baked goods, handmade noodles, jams, jellies, gifts, cards, flowers, fruits, vegetables, and "wholesome" books will be sold.

This family-oriented event is sponsored by the Bittinger and Pillar of Life Mennonite churches in the Bittinger/Accident area. Ninety percent of the proceeds go toward Christian education for the church members' children. Ten percent of the revenue will also go to Christian Aid Ministries – a nonprofit Mennonite group headquartered in Berlin, Ohio – to minister to the "physical and spiritual needs of the world."

Approximately 2,200 visitors from various parts of the country, many of whom were from the Baltimore and Washington, D.C., area, attended the last Country Fest and Auction.

For more information about this year's event, persons may visit online at countryfest.org.

9th Annual Artist Studio Tour Slated By GC Arts Council

Artists of Garrett County, in conjunction with the Garrett County Arts Council, invite the public to visit their working studios on Saturday and Sunday, July 23 and 24, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the 9th annual Garrett County Artist Studio Tour.

The tour will encompass a broad section of the county and includes more than 30 artists at 11 separate studio locations, as well as the arts council's temporary pop-up Gallery Shop in McHenry.

"The Artist Studio Tour is a great opportunity to learn about the artists' creative process, the tools and materials they use, and the path they followed to become artists," said Joan Lyon, president of the arts council. "Artists will also provide demonstrations and display artwork for sale."

A wide array of work will be featured on the circuit. In the Grantsville Arts and Entertainment District, the historic studios of the resident artists at Spruce Forest Artisan Village will be open. The demonstrations and artwork on display will include metal sculptures by Mike Edelman, weavings by Ann Jones, woodturnings by Gene Gillespie, wheel-thrown functional pottery by Lynn Lais, metal jewelry by Doug Salmon, and bird carvings by Gary Yoder.

Several guest artists will also be on-site that weekend. In Bittinger, the Loft Shop, hosted by Alan and Sue Arnson, will present woodwork and turnings by Alan and paintings and mixed media by Sue. Also featured will be the photography of Bob Carney, and artful pottery by Josh Brown.

Near Swanton, tour-takers will find the Snowbird Creations Glass Studio, home to glass artist Julie Turrentine. Her creations include garden glass sculptures, decorative centerpiece bowls, and jewelry. Along Ezra Savage Road, just off Turkey Neck Road, Mary Lou Bauer's studio will feature brilliant transparent watercolors from her current show, "Living with Color." Just around the corner is watercolor artist Robert Yonke's Appalachian Studio. His subjects include sailing, the mountains, local wildlife, and landscapes. His paintings on both paper and canvas will be available for purchase.

At Vision Quest Studios in Friendsville, the distinctive work of photographer Crede Calhoun will be on display. Crede's renowned nature photography has graced the covers and pages of numerous outdoor and nature magazines, as well as the walls of homes and corporate offices.

A few miles away is Bear Creek Studios, owned by woodworker Jeff Lyon and potter Joan Lyon. Guest artists include Connie Pardini of Wirestorm Creations with her sterling silver and copper jewelry, ornaments, and wind chimes, and painter Barbara Bednarzik, who works with watercolor and a variety of mixed media.

In McHenry, fabric artistJoan Chaney will showcase her one-of-a-kind quilts, wall hangings, and table runners. Neighboring Deep Creek Pottery will feature a wide range of functional pottery and ceramic art by hosts Ron and Lorie Skidmore. Guest artists at this location will include Marcia Warnick with her award-winning 4Wheels Photography, Brenda Caldwell with steampunk jewelry and whimsy-doodles, as well as mixed media and paintings by Maggie Pratt.

Four Storm Artists Gallery near Swallow Falls State Park will be on the tour as well, featuring the nature and landscape photography of Caroline Blizzard from Hawks Flight Studio, the outdoor and nature photography of Neal Blizzard from Ruddy Duck Studio, and original jewelry designs in sterling silver and natural gemstones from Karina Stonesifer. The gallery also represents the works of more than 20 artists from around the county.

Nearby along Swallow Falls Road, acrylic painter Sharon Elsey will showcase her work that includes pastoral landscapes and high-adventure whitewater sports scenes.

The Artist Studio Tour is free.

"This is a chance for the community and our guests to really make contact with the variety of talent we have locally," Lyon said. "Some of the locations are not generally open to the public."

The 2016 Studio Tour booklet and map are available at a number of area locations, including the Pop-up Gallery Shop and Garrett County Visitors Center in McHenry, Ruth Enlow libraries, and at various businesses throughout the area. There will also be yellow directional signage along the tour route to guide drivers to the sites.

Free Meals Offered To Children Over Summer

Garrett County Public Schools' Summer Food Service Program will offer free meals to all children age 18 and younger at 11 sites this summer.

"Last summer, over 9,000 free meals were served to children in Garrett County," said program spokesperson. "This summer, we have added to more sites, with the goal of surpassing the 12,000-free-meals mark."

Also new this summer is a mobile dining trailer.

"To meet the Summer Food Service requirements, children must stay on site to eat their meals," the spokesperson explained. "We have found areas in the county for meal sites that have no sheltered eating area. For this reason, we now have an enclosed trailer with booth-type seating to make a small dining area where the kids can get in out of the weather. So keep an eye out for us this summer. If you see the trailer going down the road, give us a wave or stop by and join us for a meal."

The 2016 Summer Food Service will operate Monday through Friday. The sites and dates are as follows:

• Dennett Road Educational Complex, June 8–Aug. 26: Breakfast, 8:30–9 a.m., and lunch, 11:30 a.m.–noon.

• Liberty Mews, 451 Liberty Street, Oakland, June 13–Aug. 24: Lunch, 11 a.m.–noon.

Wings And Wheels Fly-In Set For Aug. 13

The annual Wings and Wheels Fly-In is scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 13, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Garrett County Airport, located off Bumble Bee Road at 771 Airport Road, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Admission is free.

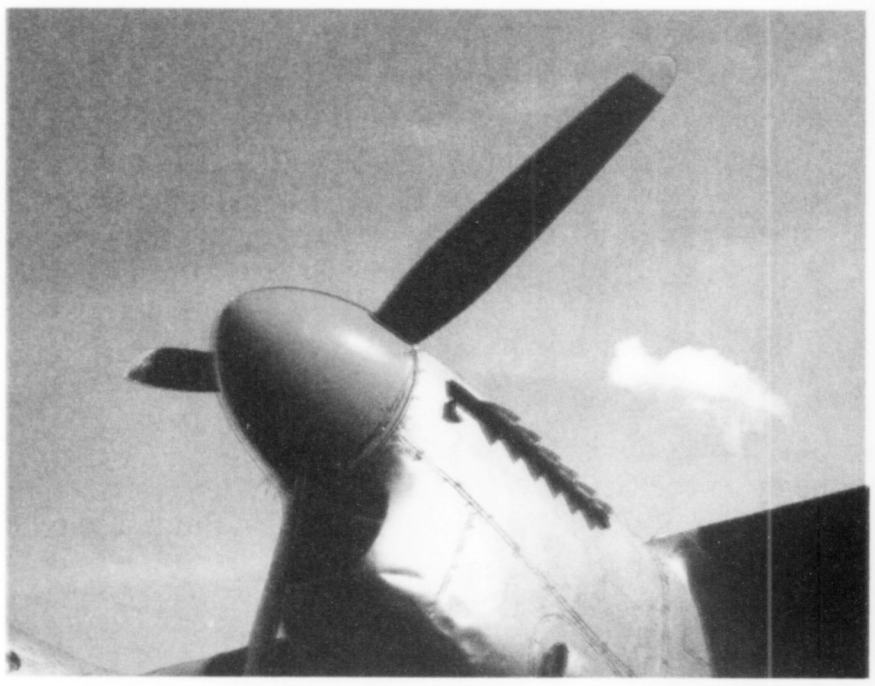

"Come enjoy the static displays of airplanes, classic cars, and remote control aircraft demonstrations," said an event spokesperson. "There will be a candy drop at 1 p.m., and food available from local vendors.

More information is available by calling Ed Kelley, airport manager, at 301-746-8599.

The Garrett County Airport (2G4) is a general aviation airport surrounded by the scenic mountains of western Maryland. The airport enhances the region's tourist industry and provides emergency air service evacuation and landing facilities for general aviation.

From a small grass airstrip in the 1940s to a current modern day general aviation airport, it is now easier to fly in and out of Garrett County, thanks to the lengthening of the runway to 5,000 feet and the associated improvements.

Owned and operated by Garrett County government, the airport is a public-use general aviation airport located between the small towns of Accident and McHenry, with Deep Creek Lake nearby. The airport's primary use is for recreational and business activities, providing resources such as flight school and sightseeing flights highlighting Deep Creek Lake.

The airport supports the military, law enforcement, Maryland Department of Natural Resources, and Civil Air Patrol.

Second Showing Of Fracking Film Set At Garrett 8

The documentary film Fracking Western Maryland? by Michael Wicklein, much of which was taped in Garrett County, will be shown at Garrett 8 Cinemas, Deep Creek Lake, on Saturday, July 9, at 9 a.m. For this second public showing, Wicklein has created a new segment covering the recent Maryland Department of the Environment hearings on proposed fracking regulations. A panel of local and state activists will share with the audience their assessment of next steps.

"The premiere of this important film in early March drew a crowd of over 300 viewers," said Barbara Beelar, director of Friends of Deep Creek Lake (FoDCL). "We hope this showing will attract local residents who were not able to see the premiere in March, and will also draw viewers from the lake property owners and other part-time residents and guests."

The list of sponsors for this special showing includes Citizen Shale, the Youghiogheny River Watershed Association (YRWA), Maryland Sierra Club, the Chesapeake Climate Action Network, and SERENADING THE ATHLETES – A very pleasant surprise awaited Gran Fondo cyclists traveling on Limestone Hill on Saturday. Local musicians Mike Hall, Sam Lauver, Curtis Pritts, Bill Skipper, and Roger Riley treated the hardy athletes to a concert as they raced to the finish line. More than 800 riders from across the nation participated in the 2016 Garrett County Gran Fondo, a fundraiser for Garrett Trails. Cyclist departed at 7 a.m. from Garrett College and traversed some of the county's most scenic areas from dawn to dusk, with the final rider finishing the 125-mile course around 8:30 p.m. "Participants were blown away by the volunteer support and crowds cheering along the five different routes," said Garrett Trails executive director Theresa MacLennan. The riders' reviews included such comments as "great ride," great organization," and "great aid station, food, and support." Another lauded Garrett County government, Garrett College, Maryland State Police, and Emergency Management Services for working so well with Garrett Trails to showcase the county to so many visitors. "It literally took a village to prepare for the event, with over 155 volunteers energetically and enthusiastically donating time on Friday and Saturday to help make the event a success," MacLennan said. "Garrett Trails is extremely grateful to all the agencies and individuals who supported the 2016 Gran Fondo." Photo by Marks Media/Ian Macy.

Resurfacing Work To Begin This Month On Interstate 68

The Maryland Department of Transportation's State Highway Administration (SHA) will begin resurfacing I-68 (National Freeway) between U.S. Rt. 219 and Shade Hollow Road in Grantsville early in July. Weather permitting, the more than four-mile, $4.6 million project will be completed by late fall.

SHA's contractor, Keystone Lime Company Inc. of Springs, Pa., will patch, grind (remove the top layer of pavement), resurface, restripe, replace, and install rumble strips on the roadway. Drivers should expect single and double lane closures any day from sunrise to sunset.

Approximately 18,000 vehicles use this section of I-68 each day, much of which is commercial truck traffic. Motorists should plan extra travel time during work. SHA will use barrels, dynamic message signs, and arrow boards to guide motorists through the work zone.

"While SHA and its transportation partners work hard to maintain safe traffic mobility in work zones, each driver needs to actively mod-

Baker Named Interim Superintendent Of Garrett County Public Schools

BARBARA BAKER

The Garrett County Board of Education has announced that Barbara Baker will be the interim superintendent of the Garrett County Public School system for the 2016-17 school year. She was chosen from a field of three candidates who underwent an extensive interview process two weeks ago.

"I am humbled and honored for the opportunity to serve the students of Garrett County in this capacity," Baker said. "I look forward to working with staff, parents, and community partners to provide learning opportunities for our students."

This appointment comes following a rigorous search process and interview screening designed by the Maryland Association of Boards of Educations (MABE). The decision to not appoint a new superintendent at this time is based on the criteria the board set for the position, a spokesperson said. Baker will officially assume the interim position on July 1.

Speaking for the education board, Charlotte Sebold, board president, thanked Dr. Janet Wilson for her four years of service as superintendent of Garrett County Public Schools.

"The state superintendent of schools, Dr. Karen Salmon, has approved Ms. Baker to serve as an interim superintendent for one year, which is the direction the board wishes to go at this time," Sebold said.

Baker has been employed by GCPS for the past 26 years. She began her career as a German instructor at Southern Middle School in 1990. Since that time, she has continued in a variety of roles, including elementary school teacher, principal, director, and her current position as assistant superintendent of educational services.

During her tenure, she has been responsible for overseeing classroom instruction, building management, instructional leadership, school improvement, strategic planning, grant writing and management, and serving as a chairperson for many committees and teams.

Through these roles, she has worked with all stakeholders, Sebold noted, from students, teachers, building

Driver's Life Saved In Parking Lot Of Inspection Station

Members of the Maryland State Police Commercial Vehicle Enforcement Division were able to save the life of a Missouri man Monday morning after he reportedly collapsed in the weigh station parking lot in Garrett County.

Shortly after 9:30 a.m., a man ran into the MSP weigh and inspection facility along I-68 in Finzel and reported someone lying in the parking lot. Master Trooper Keith Stakem, commercial vehicle inspectors Keith Comer and Clint Snyder, and Cadet Lawrence Cosgrove responded immediately and found a 57-year-old man not breathing and who had no detectable pulse.

Stakem and Comer used the facility's automated external defibrillator and began cardiopulmonary resuscitation. The man resumed breathing on his own as members of the Frostburg Area Ambulance and Eastern Garrett Fire Department arrived. He was then transported to the Western Maryland Regional Medical Center, Cumberland.

The man had reportedly just passed the North American Standard Commercial Vehicle Level III inspection prior to the incident, and Stakem and Cosgrove both said the driver had appeared physically fine as he left the safety inspection.

Rural IMPACT Initiative Representatives Conduct All-Day Site Visit In Grantsville

The Garrett County Community Action Committee (GCCAC) and Allegany County Human Resources Development Commission (HRDC) hosted an all-day site visit in Grantsville last Wednesday for federal and state agencies participating in the Rural IMPACT Initiative. IMPACT stands for Integration Models for Parents And Children to Thrive.

The White House Rural Council selected GCCAC and HRDC in September 2015 as partners to participate as one of 10 demonstration sites in the US. The goal of Rural IMPACT is to reduce child poverty by forming a learning community around the delivery of services, such as work force delivery and coordinated education, health, and early child education. Selected sites develop and implement an action plan utilizing a rural, 2-Generation (2-G) approach to address locally identified needs and goals over the course of a year's time.

"The 2-Generation model for creating family economic security utilizes a holistic approach based on family needs and goals; it also relies upon strong management information systems (MIS)," said Duane Yoder, GCCAC president. "The results of preliminary data analysis are encouraging and can be used to demonstrate measurable outcomes on a family, agency, and community level. I am appreciative of the level of interest and support at all levels of government; interest on a national level continues to grow and there is more work to be done in order to firmly establish the approach."

The intent of the site visit was to provide an update about the activities and progress of the western Maryland Rural IMPACT plan, according to Gregan Crawford, GCCAC director of strategic

GC Commissioners Approve Program Open Space Funding For Local Projects

The Garrett County commissioners approved fiscal year 2017 Program Open Space (POS) funding for six local projects during their public meeting last week at the courthouse.

Zoning administrator Bill DeVore, Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Management, said the available POS funding for Garrett County next fiscal year was $117,928.

"But the funding requests were over $271,000," DeVore noted. "So, some of the projects were leaned back a little bit, to say the least."

He presented a recommendation list in which all six of the projects would receive at least some funding. The list is as follows:

• Town of Accident, $1,890 for Accident Town Park East and West.

• Avilton Community Center Association, $29,669.50 for acquisition of a 3.3 acre tract of land.

• Oakland, $43,650 for three separate projects: restoration of a walking bridge, acoustic panels for the community center, and design of a stage at Broadford Recreation Park.

• Grantsville, $22,590 for general improvements at the Grantsville Community Park.

• Casselman Valley American Youth Soccer Organization, $7,168.50 for improvements to the soccer field.

• Garrett County Board of Education, $12,960 for Northern Middle School tennis court improvements.

All POS projects, except those involving land acquisitions, require a 10 percent local match from their sponsors.

The commissioners unanimously approved the funding recommendations. The county's list of projects and their proposed allocations was submitted to the Mary-

Local Management Board Awarded $530K For Youth/Families Programs

The Maryland Children's Cabinet, through the Governor's Office for Children, last Friday announced $15.1 million in statewide grant awards to Maryland's Local Management Boards. This includes $530,263 through the Garrett County Health Department.

Located in all 23 counties and Baltimore City, the Local Management Boards, or LMBs, bring together resources at the local level to strengthen services to children, youth, and families. These noncompetitive grants will fund more than 100 child- and family-focused programs in fiscal year 2017 (June 2016–June 2017).

The GC Health Department will use its LMB funding for the following programs:

• Diversion for Youth and Family Navigation – This strategy is for youth ages 11-17 that offers intake diversion services to juveniles referred to the Department of Juvenile Services (DJS) for a first time nonviolent offense in hopes of avoiding further DJS involvement.

The program also diverts first-time minor moving violation offenders (up to age 17) from the local sheriff's office from becoming a formal citation.

In addition, the program targets families that need assistance with accessing and/or navigating health and human services and supports – especially families with multiple and/or intensive needs.

• Early Care Healthy Families – This program provides resources and support services to expectant mothers

'16 Chautauqua: Ellington, Brooks, Hemingway; Masters Of Their Craft

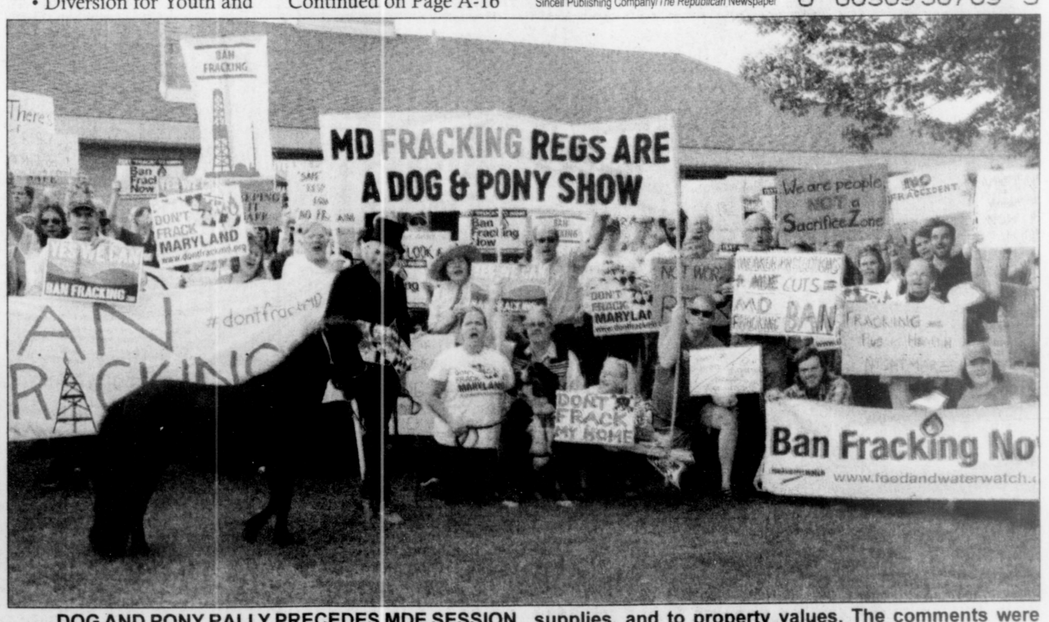

Chautauqua 2016 marks the 22nd summer Maryland Humanities has brought this free event to Garrett College, in cooperation with the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival. This year's event, Masters of Their Craft, will feature Duke Ellington on July 5, Gwendolyn Brooks on July 6, and Ernest Hemingway on July 7.

The program each evening is free and will be held in the college auditorium. As has been done for several years, warm-up acts by young performers of Garrett County will precede the programs each evening at 7 p.m., with the main speakers to take the stage at 7:30 p.m.

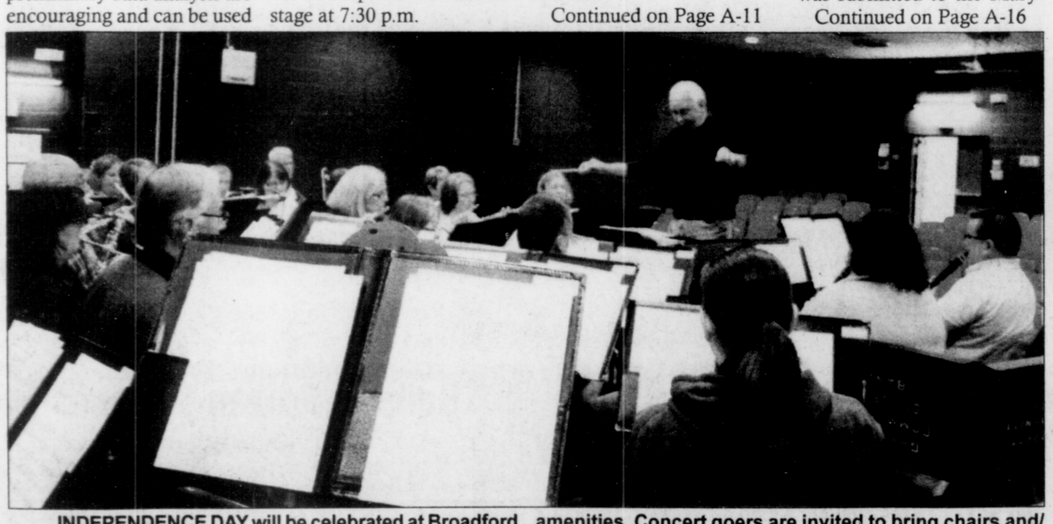

This year, the chautauqua will celebrate the 100th anniversary of the Pulitzer Prize as the three individuals to be portrayed were each Pulitzer winners.

"Put it before them briefly so they will read it, clearly so they will appreciate it, picturesquely so they will remember it, and above all, accurately so they will be guided by its light," wrote American publisher Joseph Pulitzer, articulating a set of standards that has inspired journalists, writers, artists, and musicians in their creative endeavors for over a century, a spokesperson said.

DOG AND PONY RALLY PRECEDES MDE SESSION – A live dog and pony were featured in a rally last evening, June 29, at Garrett College, where local residents and guests expressed their opinions about the Maryland Department of the Environment's latest revisions to proposed regulations for the possible onset of fracking in Maryland. Approximately 225 people attended the public hearing, and about 50 people signed up to speak following the MDE officials' review of the newest regulations. Of the 50 speakers, approximately seven were in favor of bringing the gas fracturing process into Maryland, and the rest were opposed. Those in favor pointed to the economic gain possibilities, and maintained that the regulations set forth by the MDE provide enough safeguards to proceed. Some felt that the regs are too stringent, hurting the gas and oil industry. Those against the onset of fracking quoted statistics and study results that have determined the dangers that come with fracking, with documented damage to the environment, to public health, to water supplies, and to property values. The comments were often fraught with emotion, and some incited the audience to either break into applause or to react with voiced skepticism. Several elected officials were in the audience, including county commissioners Jim Hinebaugh and Larry Tichnell, Sen. George Edwards, Del. Wendell Beitzel, some mayors of county towns, and others. Also in attendance were representatives from Engage Mountain Maryland, Citizen Shale, the Food and Water Watch, and Garrett County Energy and Property Rights Coalition. The Maryland Department of the Environment is expected to propose a revised set of regulations in the Maryland Register in advance of the Oct. 1 promulgation deadline. Persons may continue to voice their opinions about the issue to the MDE officials via email at marcellus.mde@maryland.gov or by paper mail to Attn: LMA Director's Office, Maryland Department of the Environment, 1800 Washington Boulevard, Suite 610, Baltimore, MD 21230. Comments will be accepted through July 16.

INDEPENDENCE DAY will be celebrated at Broadford Park this Sunday, July 3, when the Garrett Community Concert Band and the Garrett Choral Society will present a musical celebration of the nation's 240th "birthday." The band and chorus will present a variety of patriotic selections, including a salute to both active and retired members of all five branches of the U.S. military. The concert will begin at 7:30 p.m. at Pavilion #1, where there is ample room for picnics and enjoyment of the park's amenities. Concert goers are invited to bring chairs and/or blankets for seating. A fireworks display will begin at the conclusion of the playing of Sousa's famous "Stars and Stripes Forever," scheduled for approximately 9:30 p.m. The band will be under the direction of guest conductor Richard Clever, and the choral society is directed by Jim Tong. There is an admission charge to the park; however, the concert will be presented free of charge.

Eiswert, Wilcox Hear Variety Of District Court Cases

A number of cases have been processed in Garrett County District Court in Oakland over the past two weeks, with sentences handed down by Judges Leonard J. Eiswert and Robert C. Wilcox for a variety of offenses.

Brandon James Uphold, 20, Oakland, pleaded guilty to charges of "controlled dangerous substance administering equipment possession/distribution" and second-degree assault.

Uphold was charged by the Maryland State Police on Feb. 10 when Ofc. Lyons pulled over a car with an expired registration.

According to the report, a hypodermic syringe containing heroin was located in the driver-side door.

The charge for second-degree assault occurred on March 5 when Dep. Casey of the MSP responded to a report of a hit-and-run.

According to the report, the victim stated that Uphold followed him home with his car and caused a variety of damages to the victim's car.

Uphold was placed in custody in a nearby field following a brief pursuit and later admitted to throwing a tire iron at the victim while chasing the victim. There were also text messages confirming the defendant's actions, according to the report.

Wilcox ruled Uphold guilty on June 14 and sentenced the defendant to 18 months in the Garrett County Detention Center, 12 months of which were suspended.

Steven Michael Hall, 25, Grantsville, held an "other" plea for a charge of theft-scheme of less than $1,000.

Hall was charged by the MSP on Jan. 22, when Ofc. Angermeir was dispatched in reference to a reported crime of U.S. currency theft and debit card theft.

According to the report, Hall had acquired the pin numbers to the accounts of both victims and proceeded to do a fraudulent deposit of $200 and withdrew $100. This transaction occurred at the First Peoples FCU in Grantsville.

Wilcox found Hall guilty on June 14, sentenced the defendant to eight months in the GCDC, and ordered that a restitution of $200 must be paid to First Peoples FCU through the court.

Henry O'Brian Sines, 24, Friendsville, pleaded guilty to a charge of theft of less than $1,000.

Sines was charged by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office on April 13, when Cpl. Ruby responded in reference to a theft which occurred on the previous night.

According to the report, 15 hydrocodone pills were stolen from the victim by Sines when he was working on the victim's apartment.

Sines later confessed to stealing the pills while working there, according to the report.

Eiswert ruled Sines guilty on June 13, sentenced the defendant to 45 days in the GCDC, 39 of which were suspended, and ordered two years of probation to be supervised by the Division of Parole and Probation.

Emiley Yvonne Capel, 20, Friendsville, pleaded guilty to a charge of second-degree assault.

Capel was charged on May 6 when Ofc. Fitzwater responded to a report of disorderly people in the street.

According to the report, Fitzwater tried to calm down Capel, who had been screaming in the middle of the street about how she had been hit by the victim. The defendant proceeded to yell at the officer and then struck Fitzwater in the face, resulting in an immediate arrest.

Eye-witness reports say Capel had provoked the victim by punching, kicking, and yelling before the victim retaliated.

Wilcox ordered a "Probation before judgment" verdict on June 14 and sentenced the defendant to 90 days in the GCDC, all of which were suspended. Wilcox also ordered Capel to two years of unsupervised probation and charged the defendant a criminal fine of $200.

Aaron Michael Childers, 38, Appleton Wis., pleaded guilty to a traffic citation of "driving while impaired by drugs and alcohol, cannot drive safely."

Childers was charged on March 23, when Ofc. Angermeir pulled over a vehicle that had inoperable break lights.

According to the report, Childers was met with an odor of burnt marijuana as he approached the vehicle. The defendant's speech was slurred, pupils were dilated, and he later failed a sobriety test.

Wilcox ordered a "Probation before judgment" verdict on June 14 and handed down one day of unsupervised probation along with a traffic fine of $150.

Jessica Kay Howard, 27, Accident, pleaded guilty to a charge of theft of less than $100.

Howard was charged on March 9, 2015, when Ofc. Fitzwater responded to Dollar General referencing a theft.

According to the report, the stolen items were valued at $7.10, and the items were various, small items which included Ibuprofen gels. Howard confessed to stealing the items.

Judge Wilcox ruled Howard guilty on June 14 and sentenced her to 90 days in the GDCD, all of which was suspended. Wilcox also ordered two years of unsupervised probation.

Oakland Woman Arrested Twice In Two-Day Span

An Oakland woman was arrested two days in a row this week. Both Maryland State Police troopers and Garrett County sheriff's deputies were involved in the following incidents.

Tfc. Broadwater, MSP McHenry Barrack, responded to Glendale Road at the Glendale Bridge at approximately 1:30 p.m. Monday afternoon for a reported motor vehicle accident. The driver was identified as Angelica Marie Thayer, 43, who was reportedly found to be impaired by drugs, alcohol, or drugs and alcohol, for which she was charged.

She was additionally charged with driving while impaired by a controlled dangerous substance, negligent driving, and failure to control speed to avoid a collision. Thayer was injured in the accident and was transported to the Garrett Regional Medical Center, Oakland, prior to being taken to the Garrett County Jail. She was released the following day.

Later on Tuesday, Garrett County sheriff's deputies received a report of a stolen vehicle at approximately 3:15 p.m. from a residence at the corner of Dennett Road and N. 8th Street, Oakland. Thayer was identified as the individual who had taken the vehicle and was located a short time later by deputies. She attempted to flee from deputies on Maryland Highway, but after a short chase, she lost control of the vehicle and wrecked in the area of Sand Flat Road.

She was charged with unauthorized removal of property, destruction of property, fleeing and eluding police, reckless driving, unsafe passing on right, and driving left of center.

She was again taken to the Garrett Regional Medical Center for treatment of injuries sustained in the accident. Thayer was then transported to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing..

Two Injured In Single-Vehicle Accident Friday

A single-vehicle accident reportedly caused by wet roads left the driver and passenger with minor injuries last Friday afternoon.

Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to Bittinger Road at Green Glade Road at approximately 4 p.m. Investigation revealed that Benjamin Eugene Rodeheaver, 41, Grantsville, had been traveling north along Bittinger Road, when his vehicle reportedly hydroplaned while negotiating a left-hand turn in the roadway. The vehicle ultimately left the road on the northbound shoulder and struck the end of a guardrail.

Rodeheaver sustained a minor seat belt injury, and the backseat passenger, a juvenile male, sustained an injury to the facial area. Both were transported to the Garrett Regional Medical Center, Oakland, by Southern Rescue Squad.

21st Deep Creek Bullride Mania Set At Fairgrounds

The 21st annual Deep Creek Lake Bullride Mania will take place this weekend, Friday and Saturday, July 1 and 2, with champions and challengers in the sport of bull-riding meeting on the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry to compete for the Deep Creek Lake Bullride Mania title.

Each rider will attempt to ride his bull for eight seconds to qualify. If successful, he is then judged and scored according to form, control, and how well the bull bucks. The cowgirls of the rodeo will compete in the fast-paced barrel racing, in which they must ride their horses in a cloverleaf pattern around three barrels to decide whom is the fastest.

Among the 40 bucking bulls set to appear at the Bullride Mania are Fireball, Zorro, Get Western, and Pookie.

The show will begin at 7:30 p.m. with the Little Buckaroo Rodeo, with kids racing on stick horses and a few guests age 6 and under will try to ride an unruly sheep for six seconds in the Mutton Bustin' competition. Also appearing will be professional trick rider Gena Cox.

Ticket prices at the gate are $14 for adults and $5 for children 12 and under. Persons may save $4 on adult tickets when they are purchased in advance at the Southern States in Oakland and Grantsville.

For more information, persons may go to the Bullride Mania Facebook page or the website at www.bullridemania.com.

Harman Selected To Participate In AP Reading Proj.

Michelle Harmon, supervisor of College and Career Readiness for the Garrett County Public Schools, was selected to participate in the College Board's annual AP (advanced placement) reading project. Each June, AP teachers and college faculty members from around the world gather in the United States to evaluate and score the free-response sections of the AP exams.

AP Readers are high school and college educators who represent many of the world's leading academic institutions. The AP Reading is a unique forum in which an academic dialogue between educators is both fostered and encouraged.

"The Reading draws upon the talents of some of the finest teachers and professors that the world has to offer," said Trevor Packer, senior vice president, AP and instruction at the College Board. "It fosters professionalism, allows for the exchange of ideas, and strengthens the commitment to students and to teaching. We are very grateful for the contributions of talented educators like Michelle Harman."

The Advanced Placement Program® (AP®) enables willing and academically prepared students to pursue college-level studies – with the opportunity to earn college credit, advanced placement, or both – while still in high school. Through AP courses in 37 subjects, each culminating in a rigorous exam, students learn to analyze complex problems, construct solid arguments, and see many sides of an issue – skills that prepare them for college and beyond.

Research indicates that students who score a 3 or higher on an AP exam typically experience greater academic success in college and are more likely to earn a college degree than non-AP students.

Harman has been invited to participate in the AP Reading since 2000 and has served in a leadership role since being selected for promotion to "table leader" in 2007. The reading is a 10-day experience which involves the establishing of rubrics for each free response AP biology question, and the selection of the anchor papers representing the score range on selected questions.

The table leaders arrive early to establish the scoring guidelines, and the exams are scored once the readers arrive. This year, approximately 600 AP biology readers met in Kansas City, Mo., and scored approximately 238,000 exams. AP statistics, language, and computer science also scored at the same site this year.

Other scoring sessions occur in several locations during the first three weeks of June so that exam scores can be tabulated and made available to students in early July.

"Garrett County Public Schools offer select AP courses at both Southern and Northern high schools, depending upon schedule requests and enrollment," Harman said. "Acceptable scores for area colleges and universities vary, so students and parents are encouraged to seek this information from potential institutes of higher education prior to course selection and scheduling.

"While there is an AP examination fee, requests for fee reduction may be made by students who qualify through free and reduced meals or other special circumstances," she said. For more information about the AP program, persons may contact Harman at 301-334-8911."

She has been employed by GCPS for 26 years, having previously taught biology and other sciences at Northern Garrett High School since 1990. She earned a bachelor's degree in biology from Gannon University, obtained a master's degree in administration and supervision from Frostburg State University, and is currently completing her doctorate in educational leadership, also at Frostburg.

She was the first teacher in Garrett County to achieve national certification through the Professional Board for Teaching Standards in 2000, renewing in 2010 through 2020, and the first recipient of the Administration and Supervision Scholarship.

Besides the honor of selection as an AP Reader and table leader, Harman was the 2000 Biology Teacher of the Year Honorable Mention Recipient for Maryland, the 2001 Maryland Biology Teacher of the Year Award recipient, 2005 Teacher of the Year for GCPS and finalist for Maryland, recipient of the Ray Kroc Teaching Award, Who's Who Among American Teachers, the Chancellor's List, Subaru Teacher Recognition Program, Hood Distinguished Educator, FSU Phi Eta Sigma Outstanding Educator, Maryland Science Center Outstanding Educator, MIT Instructor Award, Oakland Elks' Teacher of the Year, and AP Rural Scholarship Recipient. She was selected for both the Governor's Academy and Principals' Leadership Academy, recipient of the Manekin Grant, and ISEF Outstanding Educator Nominee.

Harman serves as a national judge for Toshiba Exploravision Awards, a proofreader for Holt, Rinehart & Winston Modern Biology, and an item writer for Maryland High School Assessments – biology as well as AP biology examinations.

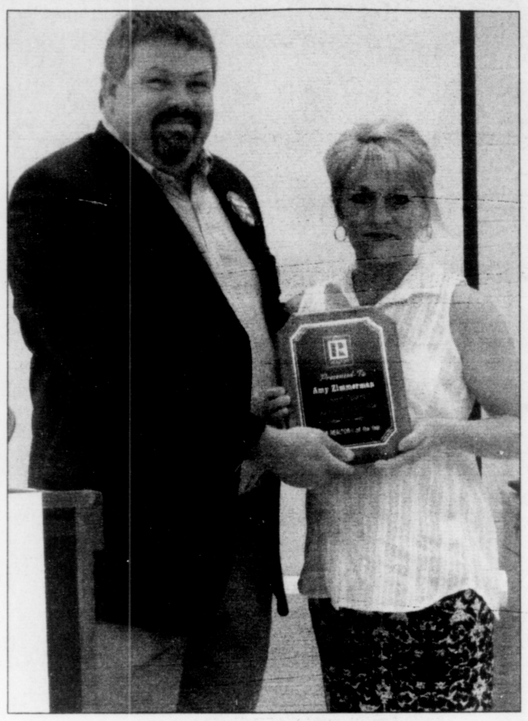

She was recognized as a member of the Third Teacher Team for USA Today in 2001 and awarded the Christa McAuliffe Fellowship for the state in 2002. She is a member of the Western Maryland Safe Driving Task Force, Secondary Council on Reforms in Education, Hands Only CPR Advisory, Governor's Task Force for SB 740, Maryland delegation for transition course training and design, and a member of the board of directors of the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center.

Harman has served on the Strategic Planning Committee for Garrett College, as a mentor for the Girls' Empowerment Middle Schools (GEMS) project, and was recently appointed as a member of the presidential search committee for Garrett College.

Harman holds an MSDE advanced professional certificate, with 5-12 certification in biology, health, and general science, as well as administration I and II in addition to her national certification in adolescence and young adulthood with a concentration in biology.

The educator is the daughter of JoAnn Forno, Addison, Pa., and the late Pete Forno. She resides in Grantsville with her son, Blake Harman.

Zimmerman Named Realtor Of The Year

The Garrett County Board of Realtors® (GCBR) announced this week that Amy Zimmerman, the board's president, has been selected by her peers as this year's winner of the GCBR Realtor of the Year Award. She is pictured above receiving her plaque from GCBR vice president Bob Carney.

The Realtor of the Year Award is one of the top honors granted each year by the GCBR. It recognizes a member who has been active in the organization on local, state, and national levels; who exemplifies the "realtor spirit"; upholds the group's code of ethics in business practices; and who has made "significant" contributions to the local civic community.

Zimmerman will now represent the GCBR during the Maryland Association of Realtors (MAR) conference in Ocean City in September. The MAR Realtor of the Year will be announced during that event.

Zimmerman has been in the real estate business since December 2010 and is licensed with Railey Realty. She previously served as the GCRB's vice president. She has also served on the MAR President's Council and completed the MAR Leadership Forum.

"Her dedication and commitment in serving on the committees of Task Force, Equal Opportunity & Affordable Housing, Realtors Political Action, Realtors Community Service, Budget & Finance, Nominating, and Strategic Planning have been instrumental in others to become involved," said a GCBR spokesperson.

Zimmerman has also dedicated numerous hours for the Southern Garrett Athletic Association.

She is married, has two sons, and resides in the Oakland area.

administrators, community, to central office personnel. Beyond her involvement at the local level, Baker has participated in regional and state level (MSDE) educational planning and implementation, and is familiar with state initiatives and related legislation.

Baker is a product of GCPS herself, being a graduate of Northern Garrett High School. She continued her education at Ohio University, where she obtained a bachelor of science degree in elementary education, with a minor in German. She earned a master's degree in school guidance and counseling and certification in administration and supervision.

She has been accepted as a candidate in the Frostburg State University doctoral program, where she will work toward a doctorate in educational leadership, with a concentration in pre-school to 12th grade leadership.

Baker is an active member of the Oakland Rotary Club, serving as the organization's president since 2015. As a member of the Rotary, she has been a volunteer for the annual Christmas project, organized and participated in fundraisers, and coordinated educational guest speakers. In addition to being a member of the Rotary Club, she has supported numerous local service organizations, including Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, Garrett Mentors, House of Hope, and Garrett County United Way.

She is also a member of Delta Kappa Gamma, a professional honor society of women educators whose mission is to promote professional and personal growth and excellence in education.

Baker is a resident of Garrett County and the daughter of Robert Taylor, Oakland, and the late Ann Taylor. She has two siblings who are also involved in education – Suzan Taylor-O'Brien, a teacher, and David Taylor, a wrestling coach for Southern High School.

She has one daughter, Nicole Ann Baker, a 2016 graduate of Southern Garrett High School. Together, they travel, engage in outdoor activities, attend national sporting events, and support county activities such as sports, arts, sciences, and robotics.

Wilson Hired By Montgomery Co. Public Schools

Dr. Janet Wilson, former superintendent of Garrett County Public Schools (MCPS), has been appointed as the associate superintendent of Office of Shared Accountability at Montgomery County Public Schools. She is to begin in her new role tomorrow, July 1, having been selected for the job in April.

Wilson said she is honored to join the MCPS team.

"I look forward to a collaborative experience and the important work that will be accomplished on behalf of the students, staff, and community of Montgomery County each and every day," she said

Dr. Wilson served as superintendent of Garrett County Public Schools for four years. Prior to this she worked for Allegany County Public Schools in a variety of roles such as chief academic officer, assistant superintendent, supervisor of early childhood, principal, and teacher for nearly 25 years.

Wilson said she has appreciated the support of the Garrett County Board of Education in moving the school system forward to provide a 21st-century academic program, enabling local students "to thrive in a competitive workforce and in ever changing world conditions."

The Garrett County Board of Education has announced that Barbara Baker will be assuming the role of interim superintendent beginning on July 1. (See separate story.)

July 4th Parking To Benefit GaCo Robotics Team

FIRST Robotics Competition (FRC) Team 1629, the Garrett Coalition (GaCo), will be providing parking for drivers who wish to view the "Fire on the Mountains Fireworks" display at Deep Creek Lake on July 4. There will be two locations in the McHenry area.

GaCo team members will offer parking across Rt. 219 from Smiley's Fun Zone, adjacent to the Garrett County Fairgrounds, as in previous years. The second site will be at the fairgrounds parking lot at the Mosser Road entrance.

The gates will open at 3 p.m. at the Mosser Road entrance of the fairgrounds, and at the Smiley's location at 6 p.m.

Parking will be $5 per vehicle at both locations.

Prior to the start of the fireworks display, GaCo will sell fresh-squeezed lemonade, demonstrate its FRC robot used for competition last season, launch solid fuel model rockets, and have some of its LEGO interactive models on hand at both locations.

The team will also display its LEGO "Lemonade Train" at the lemonade stand on the fairgrounds parking lot.

GaCo Robotics is a school-sponsored extracurricular activity of the Garrett County Public Schools. Team members and their coaches said they appreciate Smiley's Fun Zone and the Garrett County Fair Board for partnering with the team in this fundraising activity.

PWC "Enlightenment"...

The topic of this corner last week was personal watercraft (PWCs) on Deep Creek Lake and how regulations for use of such craft are seemingly quite lax. The impetus for writing the column was a recent accident involving a rented PWC at the lake that could have easily resulted in serious injury or death.

However, some "enlightenment" on the issue of boat safety regarding both PWCs and regular inboard/outboard motorboats was provided by the manager of a local marina, and in the interest of fairness it was decided to revisit the matter this week.

The allegation was made last week that renters of PWCs receive almost no training before they jump on board these motorized "snowmobile-like" craft and take off across the surface of the lake. It was stated the only "training" they receive is the viewing of a brief video.

First of all, there is an online boating course that is required for all persons born after July 1, 1972, and which must be completed before being eligible to rent either a PWC or a motorboat. (So all persons over age 44 don't have to worry about the course.) The online course, obviously, does not (cannot) provide any in-boat, on-water experience whatsoever.

According to the marina manager, renters of PWCs at her establishment must be at least 16, and must watch the film, read a DNR pamphlet, read the operating instructions, pass a quiz, and, finally, receive at least some hands-on training before being "turned loose." She would not confirm if this was the practice of all marinas that rent PWCs.

More significantly, she told us that the renters of the aforementioned full-size motorboats typically receive less training than do PWC renters before embarking. Renters of motorboats must be at least 16 and must read the DNR pamphlet – period. After reading the pamphlet, those who are born after July 1, 1972, and have completed the online course are issued a 10-day boating certificate, and off they go.

Boat owners, rather than renters, need only take the online course (if born after 7/1/72), and there is no minimum age requirement. That means that at any given time there could be dozens of boats being operated by persons over age 44 who have zero training or experience.

The marina manager also shared some telling statistics with us. There were 23 boating accidents on Deep Creek Lake in 2014, but only one of them involved at least one PWC. There were 30 accidents on DCL in 2013, with just four of them involving at least one PWC. Collectively, from 2010 through 2014, there were 156 boating accidents, with only 21 – just over 13% – of them involving a PWC.

Further, the vast majority of those accidents did not involve rented craft, but privately owned PWCs and boats. Only about 27% of PWC operators are on rented units.

One additional interesting stat is that, while most believe that the average PWC operator is an inexperienced, possibly irresponsible teenager, the average age of PWC operators is actually 41.

So, the conclusion is that the state of Maryland arguably should tighten up the regulations for operation of all watercraft, not just PWCs. A relatively easy, reasonable, inexpensive addition, at least for renters of watercraft, would be a quick hands-on, in-boat spin or two on the lake with a trained marina representative on board before being allowed to go solo.

To the Editor:

In our interoffice postings, we were asked what we would do if we won big on the lottery. After some thought, I responded this way.

Not having to worry about income would take a lot of the pressures off of just trying to get by. It would give me the chance to do something I have always wanted to do – teach. Not necessarily in a school, but for sure I would like to share something that has been a love all my life – playing music.

I have played a clarinet on and off for over 50 years. Yep, same one I learned on. I did not have much schooling in it, but I have enjoyed playing it because I like making music. I am not good enough to make a living at it, yet it sure is fun to do. I have played with the Garrett Community Concert Band for the last 10 years or so. The band is made up of people of all ages and abilities, but united in the love of making music and sharing it.

One of the biggest joys we have is breaking in the new, young musicians into the many kinds of music there are, from the big-band sound to marches to classical. And the common response from them is "Wow!" Yet, the pool of musicians to draw from is small, considering all the other interests there are, as well as an apparent dwindling of the fine arts in schools. Hence my interest in teaching,,, maybe... possibly.

Another source of talent for us could be you – yes, you, the reader. Has anybody played in the band in high school or college? Liked it but put the instrument away to pursue life? Still have it in the back of a closet? Remember it with fondness and have not forgotten the joy that comes from playing a hard song as a band well for others?

The GCCB really does welcome anybody who wants to play. We do have access to someone who can check your musical instrument. And the practices we have are the best teaching tool there is, plus the the camaraderie that comes from playing with like-minded people is priceless.

Check us out at Broadford Park on July 3 at 7:30. We, along with the Garrett Choral Society, have a good concert planned, with the fireworks afterward. By listening to the band play, over 10 years ago, I remembered how much I had loved it. We invite you to join us, to listen to us, and maybe – possibly – be inspired.

To the Editor:

Our communities are divided by the fracking issue. However, there is a bigger issue – our climate crisis. Corporations are making the rich richer and, in so doing, are creating a warmer planet.

The Maryland Department of the Environment is holding public meetings for citizens to voice our reactions to their recommendations for regulations. Interesting that MDE sent out its "issue papers" the same day as the first hearing – so much for considered input.

Now, MDE is putting us in a situation of negotiating for our own future, for clean water and air, healthy plants, and a climate we can live in. We don't negotiate for our future, we demand it. We demand a healthy planet. We refuse to allow corporations to dictate to the state (or pay their way through campaign contributions and lobbying), and we insist that no regulations can prevent accidents, no regulations ensure adequate enforcement, no regulations ensure fool proof hydraulic fracturing.

While we pay for our coal, our gas, and other fossil fuels, we also pay for the cleanup after more severe and more frequent natural disasters brought on by fossil fuel use that are not incorporated into the price of the fuels and end up being paid for by the citizens through taxes. Of course, you cannot pay for lives lost and irreparable damage to our ecosystem and our destroyed dreams. The corporations do not pay one red cent for this remediation. They, in effect, are subsidized at the expense of the taxpayer (negative externalities).

We should be building community to fight corporate greed and to demand a fair political voice. Thanks to Citizens United, the U.S. Supreme Court has given corporations unlimited financial access to the political process. We should be banding together, insisting on a fairer process and letting our politicians know that our right to a healthy and safe environment is not for sale.

Ban fracking now! No regulations! Let's keep it in the ground, and let's protect our world, ourselves, our children, and our children's children. We reject your regulations.

The issue is not fracking; the issue is our future!

Kenny Braitman,
Garrett County resident

To the Editor:

The Huffington Post recently visited Avella, Pa., (30 miles southwest of Pittsburgh) to talk to residents whose lives have been ruined by hydraulic fracking. One elderly couple have had their water well ruined with high levels of lead, iron, and manganese. There is so much sand in their well water that running it clogs up faucets, drains, and water lines.

Complaining to the Pa. EPA did little, and their well-water investigation has been pending for an extended period of time. The EPA claims it cannot determine whether or not fracking played a role in the contamination. If the family walked around their front yard after running the sprinklers, within days the soles of their shoes rotted away because of large amounts of toluene in the water (a known fracking compound). Watering plants causes them to wither and die. "Everything we have worked to create, has been destroyed," they commented.

For other residents of the town, showering in their well water left them with blotchy rashes and abnormal skin growths. When residents and officials reached out to Atlas Energy (the company doing the fracking), they got little more than a short written response, claiming Atlas uses the best practices in the fracking industry. Homes in Avella are often unmistakable, due to the large water buffalos erected outside, where city water is shipped in at an alarming cost to residents.

The lesson in Pennsylvania is that, like many other reckless industrial practices, the people who suffer the most are those of the middle class. They've worked hard their entire lives, and invested everything into their homes. They cannot afford a high-powered lawyer, or a fight against a multi-billion-dollar company in court. They are left to depend on the systems put into place, seemingly with the intent of protecting the public good, systems they pay for through lifelong taxation.

What they've learned is that often those systems have been "bought and elected" by fracking companies. The money that fracking companies promised would pour into communities has actually gone to lobbyists and been used for campaign donations to fracking-friendly politicians. Middle-class families have resorted to second mortgages, family donations, and public charity to afford to have access to clean water, all while they watch a handful of politicians and lucky neighbors get rich.

Certainly sounds like a wonderful "Deep Creek Experience," and sadly one only a handful of residents will be able to escape.

To the Editor:

We live along Rt. 495. Our mailbox was across the street. My husband and I were unable to pick the mail up on a daily basis. My husband is a USMC disabled Vietnam veteran, and I have MS.

Last fall, the mail carrier stuffed our mailbox so full he pushed it off the stand, and there it sat for a couple of days before I noticed it. I went into the post office and talked to the manager, who said he knew nothing about it. So I put a hold on the mail for the winter until I could do something about it. I got a doctor's letter asking if we could move the box to our side of the street, and the PO manager agreed.

We put up a mailbox that cost $450. I went into the post office and told them that they could resume delivery.

My husband, who was affected by Agent Orange, has had a stroke and quadruple heart bypass, and has diabetes and PTSD. He gets his medication from the VA.

They still weren't delivering. On May 20, I called USPS, which had sent a letter to the PO manager. He came to my door, apologized, and said it would start tomorrow. Well, tomorrow was next week. I had to go into the post office again and asked why it wasn't being delivered. The manager said he hadn't talked to the carrier yet.

We got mail the following day and then it went to once a week. I went in again that week; we got it three times. Then it went to two weeks (June 3). I called USPS again; mail again was delivered. We got mail on June 17. We were waiting for my husband's glasses and an important document.

On June 24, I called USPS consumer affairs, they called the post office, the glasses were delivered, but not the document. It was mailed on June 16 from only 20 miles away.

So what is it with them holding our mail and not telling us? Did they lose it? What else has been lost? I learned that the manager told USPS that "the customer put the mailbox not in line of site." That is strange; they did deliver mail, but suddenly this is an issue. The box is in plain view. Why would we spend $450 to do something like that?

We need help.

To the Editor:

I'm writing this today as a concerned parent and about the need for change within the structure of the Oakland Youth Baseball League.

I will start off by saying that my 9-year-old daughter loves playing baseball. This was her second year, and this year she was moved up to the 9-10 Little League division. During the third game of the season, she was hit by the opposing team's pitcher hard enough to injure the growth plate in her wrist. She was in a cast for five weeks.

This was devastating to her. Sure I was upset that 9- and 10-year-olds are pitching hard and fast enough to cause that kind of an injury, but I understand that it is a sport, and things like that do happen.

But then I learned that 9-year-olds were playing in Coach Pitch and were not made to move up into Little League. I then started to wonder how it was fair that my daughter was moved up and more subject to injury while others were chosen to stay in Coach Pitch. The players who were kept down were more advanced and had a higher skill level than my daughter. So why then were these players being protected, but not the players who were less skilled and/or advanced?

My concern is that it seems the board voted to protect some kids, but not others. They directly violated the age guidelines and did so inconsistently.

Also effective this year, 6-year-olds were allowed to play in the Coach Pitch, so now there are 6-year-olds on the field trying to play against 9-year-olds who are double or triple their size and hitting every ball to the fence.

I feel that safety was not considered in any of these decisions, but as a parent I had no say in what was happening. When it comes to my children, I just want to know that their safety is being considered, and after this year I cannot say that this is happening.

There is a petition on www.gopetition.com (search Oakland youth baseball) right now to sanction the league, and after this season, I hope that option is seriously being considered. There needs to be change within the league to ensure that the safety of all the players is the top priority when decisions are made.

Sincerely,
Jodi Roberson

To the Editor:

This past weekend we had the latest edition of Gran Fondo. This year, Steve Green and friends took a great idea and made it better. They changed routes to make them more challenging and improved pre- and post-race events. And they were supported by an amazing group of volunteers who outdid themselves in hospitality and helpfulness.

For some riders this was their first time in the county; they came just for the event. As we all know, the beauty and openness of the county will bring them back. Others had been here before and came back to savor the experience. All seemed to agree that while the event was extremely challenging, it was well worth the trip. Bikers came to be challenged and for the camaraderie of being with fellow cyclists. They felt the event was extremely well supported. I overheard one rider complaining he missed his turn for the century ride, but everyone at the table agreed it was his fault – the roads could not have been better marked.

What was unusual was the number of families who participated. It was a little unnerving when a 12-year-old boy climbed Accident-Friendsvjlle Hill and Bowman Hill passing all the adults like we were standing still. Although many of us tried to keep a 3-4 mph rate of climb, some did not and ended up momentarily standing still before falling.

The volunteers included not only the folks who staffed the aid stations along the route, but the police, people who drove sag wagons to help distressed cyclists, and those who helped in the pre- and post-ride activities at Garrett College. Their spirit was not lost on the participants.

Steve Green and his group should be congratulated on staging an event that looked effortless in execution, but took countless hours of effort to assemble. The county benefited in so many ways. It attracted 1,100 participants plus their families and friends, and provided a significant amount of revenue, which helped support a very important endeavor – Garrett Trails. Garrett Trails seeks to increase the use of on- and off-road areas by bicyclists and make bicycling more acceptable in our county by minimizing impact on our county resources while maximizing the benefits to locals and visitors alike.

A grateful, but
exhausted participant,
Tom Dabney

P.S. Garrett County drivers got major compliments for their courtesy and patience. At home, many of them have to protect themselves from being hit or forced off the road.

To the Editor:

In reply to Paul Christian's piece last week, it is as if we are at war. Sixty thousand of our soldiers died in Vietnam. About 4,000 died in Iraq. Nearly 100 of our soldiers died in Afghanistan two years ago. But, the U.S. is averaging 15,000 needless gun violence deaths per year. That is about the same as a Vietnam War every four years for no meaningful reason.

Many of these shootings are carried out by mentally ill persons. There is no inexpensive way to reduce the number of mentally ill persons. Privacy of patient records is a huge hurdle for starters, but three steps would change the landscape of the U.S. gun violence.

First, register all guns and ammunition just like cars. This will help locate the bad guys when there is a shooting.

Second, owners of guns must insure them. This is to enable survivors of gun violence to obtain fair compensation. Cars, motorcycles, and boats must be insured. Why not guns?

Third, require that AR-15s, Bushmasters, and AK-47s must be stored in and signed out of an armory. Soldiers at U.S. forts must do this.

In regard to the Second Amendment, Paul Christian should Google and read the Supreme Court case Heller vs. D.C. Heller says that a person can have a gun in his home for self-defense. It does not say anyone can have any gun anywhere.

Paul, I don't think gun-safety advocates want your guns. They are too dangerous in the home. Research by Kellerman, now at NIH, showed the homeowner is three times more likely to be killed than the intruder with a gun. A woman in a home with a gun is 500% more likely to die in a domestic disturbance than one in a home with no gun. Over 1,000 toddlers die from gun violence each year.

Spouses, children, and friends are more precious than the gun-sales-driven NRA.

To the Editor:

My lake property has been part of my family for over 60 years. Never in those 60 years have I seen shoreline erosion as severe as what has been happening for the past month.

Lake levels have been as high as 6 inches above the upper rule band, and recent rains are no excuse for the apparent inability of lake management to assure that such conditions do not happen. The upper rule band was established to benefit a few, not the whole, and now the entire lake is suffering from incompetent lake management and a few who are ill-informed enough to think that pushing dredging of coves that never should have been developed is going to solve the erosion problem.

In reality, they are the ones who are contributing the most to the problem. And while the cries of the "lake huggers" are heard, property owners who want to repair retaining walls damaged by high lake levels and excessive lake traffic are told they cannot because the walls which were built over 50 years ago do not comply with regulations established for the Chesapeake Bay. It is ironic that these walls withstood the test of time only until the rule bands were established and excessive boat traffic was allowed.

With the current lake water level as high as it is and the upcoming holiday weekend, the severity of the erosion will be as never before in the history of the lake. It is sad that the future of Deep Creek Lake is questionable due to incompetence and a select, self-serving few.

Respectfully,
Ann Martin

Garrett Regional Medical Ctr. Holds Celebration For Cancer Survivors

The hospital lobby was recently full with cancer survivors and community supporters who joined with the West Virginia University Cancer Institute at Garrett Regional Medical Center in recognition of National Cancer Survivors Day by attending a breakfast event.

Survivors and their families were invited to come ring the healing bell at the hospital. Attendees were treated to coffee and doughnuts provided by Bill Meagher, owner of Deep Creek Doughnuts at Deep Creek Lake.

Meagher, a stage III cancer survivor himself, talked about the community response as a whole.

"We're all thankful to have the WVU Cancer Institute here at Garrett Regional Medical Center," Meagher said. "We live in a very generous community. People not only offer their prayers and thoughts, they offer rides, help with the kids, and provide whatever assistance they can. That's what is most valuable – the countless ways that people provide support to friends and neighbors battling cancer."

Nancy Schrock was among the first couple survivors to ring the healing bell.

"It is tough [having cancer]; you just don't want to be there," she said about her journey with cancer. "But God's grace is sufficient, and each day is a blessing."

Having been diagnosed two years ago, Schrock explained that she is in her second round of treatment. She started her treatments at WVU in Morgantown, W.Va., and is now receiving treatments at the WVU Cancer Institute here at GRMC.

"Being treated in Oakland has helped a lot," she said. "The travel time – it's a long haul [to Morgantown] when you don't feel well."

The most important message that she wanted to share is that "God is sufficient and each day is a blessing."

Jim Flanigan also talked about his cancer survivorship, stating he was diagnosed with prostate cancer in 1988. He has received treatments at cancer centers in Morgantown, Cumberland, Tampa, Fla. (while vacationing), and Oakland.

"I only live 5 miles from the Cancer Institute in Oakland, so now I don't have to travel," Flanigan said. "The people here are extra, extra nice, polite and helpful. They know what they are doing, and they know how to treat people. Overall, I feel good, and I'm glad the center is here."

The first National Cancer Survivors Day was held on June 5, 1988, to show the world that life after a cancer diagnosis can be fruitful, rewarding, and even inspiring, according to Kathy Greaser, GRMC senior director of marketing and public relations.

"Life after cancer is more than just surviving cancer, it is amazing," said Gina Artice, GRMC cancer care patient navigator. " It can be beautiful, abundant, and fulfilling. That is something to celebrate. Our event was filled with hope and compassion, as we acknowledged our community's cancer survivors. We also recognize the contributions of their families, friends, and healthcare providers, and hope to raise awareness about the ongoing challenges faced by cancer survivors today."

Anyone living with a history of cancer, from the moment of diagnosis through the remainder of life, is a cancer survivor, according to the National Cancer Survivors Day Foundation. In the United States alone, there are more than 14.5 million people living with a history of cancer.

"Major advances in cancer prevention, early detection, and treatment have resulted in longer survival, and therefore, a growing number of cancer survivors," said Mark Boucot, GRMC president/CEO. "However, a cancer diagnosis can leave a host of problems in its wake. Physical, financial, and emotional hardships often persist for years after diagnosis and treatment."

He noted that survivors face many challenges, such as limited access to cancer specialists and promising new treatments, inadequate or no health insurance, financial hardships, psychological struggles, and a lack of understanding from family and friends.

"Our hope is that having opened the WVU Cancer Institute here at Garrett Regional Medical Center makes all of the problems associated with cancer care easier to bear," Boucet said. "Together, GRMC and the community can focus on improving the quality of life for cancer survivors.

"GRMC has enacted a plan to improve the overall health of the community through prevention, early detection and addressing the social determinants that lead to poor health," he continued. "GRMC has improved its technological capabilities by adding digital 3-D mammography, PET CT, and accuvein technology for IV insertions. Finally, the hospital has received tremendous support from the community for the Cancer Center and is excited to announce expansion plans for the center to include a survivors' meeting room, a dedicated pharmacy, additional treatment bays, a cosmetology room, and a research library."

M&T SUPPORTS HABITAT – Garrett County Habitat for Humanity has received a donation of $5,000 from the M&T Charitable Foundation to support Habitat's mission to provide decent, affordable housing to local residents in need. Pictured from left are M&T employees Gina Harvey and Kim Dewitt, M&T vice president and branch manager Regina Gearhart, GCHFH executive director Brent Stone, and M&T employee Shannan Burrell.

Cathy was born in her grandmother's home in Mtn. Lake Park on Feb. 24, 1950, to Tom and Clara Ellen Beckman. For the first eight years of her life, she lived on the family farm without electricity or running water in the oldest continuously inhabited cabin in the county.

She lived and worked in the Daytona Beach area as he finished his schooling. They moved to Anchorage in May 1974 with their newborn son and German shepherd.

Cathy retired in 2008 after 37 years in nursing. She continued to volunteer her time and passion with Anchorage Project Access, American Cancer Society, and Parish Nursing.

She loved to keep her hands busy with knitting, crocheting, sewing, and gardening. Her many dogs kept her active over the years.

initiatives.

The four goals of the plan are embedding the 2-G approach across all agency departments; enhancing aspects of data capacity, management, and understanding; developing common outcome measures that demonstrate the effectiveness of 2-G approaches which will help to sustain and expand opportunities for all stakeholders; and increasing the capacity to advocate for 2-G practices on state and national levels.

The first six months allow for a period of planning and the remaining six months of time will be spent working to achieve the goals established, Crawford said.

Courtney Thomas, executive director of Allegany County Human Resources Development Commission, reflected on the day long visit, stating that she is encouraged by the exchange of ideas and guidance provided.

Below left is Cindy, a mother feline who needs her own home now that her kittens have been adopted. Below right is Grimlen, who was given up by her owner. "She's a girl, but is reaching out to catch your attention," the spokesperson said. "Please visit the county animal shelter to find your next pet. GC Commissioners Announce Agenda For Next Meeting

The Garrett County commissioners have announced the agenda for their next public meeting, scheduled for Tuesday, July 5, at 4 p.m. at the courthouse in Oakland.

Agenda items include a proclamation presentation for Lake Appreciation Month, a resolution for the Garrett County Community Action Committee – Rural IMPACT (Integration Models for Parents And Children to Thrive) county challenge, a presentation by the Mountain Maryland Solar Co-op organization, and a review of the Maryland Commercial PACE (Property Assessed Clean Energy) Program.

The commissioners' next public meeting will be held on Tuesday, July 19, at 4 p.m. at the Bloomington Volunteer Fire Department.

Requests to be on the agenda must be made with Carol Riley-Alexander, executive assistant to the Board of Garrett County Commissioners.

"A paradigm shift is taking place in the approach and in the manner with which programs and services are provided to the public," she added. "Continued collaboration and cross department and agency coordination is critical to sustaining the progress that both agencies have made in establishing 2-Generation initiatives in our region of Maryland."

Aside from providing a status update by GCCAC and HRDC, the agenda included talks about challenges encountered and anticipated, and challenges related to the future of 2-Generation work. After a working lunch, the attendees spent time speaking with families who actively take part in 2-G programming at each agency, gaining a valuable perspective and insights from the families' perspective and program participation, Crawford noted.

The balance of the day was an open discussion about "next steps" and the increasing interest and support of the 2-Generational approach for helping families achieve economic security.

"We are excited about the growing acceptance and implementation of 2-generational approaches and look forward to sharing our knowledge and results as we learn," said Yoder.

Represented were various core federal partners, including the Department of Labor, Office of Rural Health Policy, Department of Health and Human Services, the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration, and USDA.

The meeting benefited from the presence of the American Academy of Pediatrics, Crawford added. Participants also included representatives from the Maryland Governor's Office for Children; Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development, Maryland Department of Licensing, Labor and Regulation; and Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.

Crawford said all of the departments contributed to the discussions, providing insight and guidance of state policy and programs.

Local core team members for the demonstration site project included Garrett College and the Garrett County Health Department. Also on hand to learn more about the project were Sen. George Edwards, Del. Mike McKay, and chairman of the Board of Garrett County Commissioners, Paul Edwards.

"The interest and diversity in the number of federal, state, and local agencies and departments represented, the attendance of elected officials as well as families made for a robust day of discussion, insight, and planning," Crawford said.

Preston County
Farm Service Agency Reports

Alexa Talkington, County Executive Director
Preston County FSA Office
157 Plaza CT., Suite 13, Kingwood, WV 26537-1793
304-329-1923

FSA COUNTY COMMITTEE NOMINATION PERIOD BEGAN JUNE 15

Preston County USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) executive director Alexa J. Talkington announced that the nomination period for local FSA county committees began on June 15.

"County committees are unique to FSA and allow producers to have a voice on federal farm program implementation at the local level," said Talkington.

To be eligible to serve on an FSA county committee, a person must participate or cooperate in an FSA administered program, be eligible to vote in a county committee election, and reside in the local administrative area (LAA) where they are nominated. This year, nominations and elections will be held in LAA 2, which includes Masontown, Reedsville, Kingwood, Tunnelton, Albright, and Terra Alta.

Farmers and livestock producers may nominate themselves or others. Organizations representing minorities and women also may nominate candidates. To become a candidate, an eligible individual must sign an FSA-669A nomination form. The form and other information about FSA county committee elections are available online at www.fsa.usda.gov/elections. Nomination forms must be postmarked or received in the Preston County FSA office by close of business on Aug. 1, 2016.

Elected county committee members serve a three-year term and are responsible for making decisions on FSA disaster, conservation, and commodity and price support programs, as well as other important federal farm program issues. County committees consist of three to 11 members.

"It is important that county committees consist of members who fairly represent the diverse demographics of production agriculture for their community," said Talkington. "All producers, including women, minority, and beginning farmers and ranchers, are encouraged to participate in the nomination and election process."

FSA will mail election ballots to eligible voters beginning Nov. 7. Ballots must be returned to the Preston County FSA office via mail or in person by Dec. 5. Newly elected committee members and alternates will take office on Jan. 1, 2017.

For more information about county committees, persons are invited to contact the Preston County FSA office at 304-329-1923 or go online to www.fsa.usda.gov/elections.

PRESTON COUNTY FSA ACREAGE REPORTING DATES FOR 2016 ANNOUNCED

Executive director Talkington also announced that producers who file accurate and timely reports for all crops and land uses, including failed acreage, can prevent the potential loss of FSA program benefits.

"In order to comply with FSA program eligibility requirements, all producers are encouraged to visit the Preston County FSA office to file an accurate crop certification report by the applicable deadline," said Talkington.

The following acreage reporting dates are applicable for Preston County: July 15, 2016, all other crops; Dec. 15, 2016, fall-seeded small grains; Jan. 2, 2017, honey; and Jan. 15, 2017, apples and peaches.

The following exceptions apply to the above acreage reporting dates:

•If the crop has not been planted by the above acreage reporting date, then the acreage must be reported no later than 15 calendar days after planting is completed.

•If a producer acquires additional acreage after the above acreage reporting date, then the acreage must be reported no later than 30 calendars days after purchase or acquiring the lease. Appropriate documentation must be provided to the county office.

•If a perennial forage crop is reported with the intended use of "cover only," "green manure," "left standing," or "seed," then the acreage must be reported by July 15.

According to Talkington, Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP) policy holders should note that the acreage reporting date for NAP covered crops is the earlier of the dates listed above, or 15 calendar days before grazing or harvesting of the crop begins.

More information regarding crop certification and crop loss reports can be obtained at the Preston County FSA office, 304-329-1923.

GC Arts Council Will Open Pop-Up Gallery Today In McHenry

The Garrett County Arts Council is opening a new Pop-Up Gallery Shop, with the doors to open today, June 30. After the success of two temporary holiday pop-up galleries in late 2015, the new McHenry pop-up will be a continuation of GCAC's commitment to both local visual artists and the public, a spokesperson said.

This pop-up art gallery is a retail space that will remain in operation from now through the Christmas season, with a projected closing date of Dec. 31. It is located at 25227 Garrett Highway, McHenry, next to Archie's Barbeque. It will be open every day from now through Labor Day. Monday through Saturday hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. The phone number is 301-914-1378.

The GCAC board of directors is currently in the process of planning for a permanent home for the Gallery Shop. As that process continues, the pop-up, temporary shop will allow regional artists to have their work available to the public. Part of GCAC's mission is to support the artist community of Garrett County and the surrounding areas by providing the space and the staffing for a retail facility.

The pop-up shop features unique, handcrafted gifts and works of art. Items available include jewelry, apparel, accessories, paintings of all media, photography, glass, basketry, woodworking, furniture, and more.

The shop has been made possible through the donation of the building space from Stuck Enterprises of Waynesburg, Pa. Stuck Enterprises is the parent company of Jacobs Petroleum and Oakland Oil & Propane.

Another contributor has been Carriage House Antiques, located at 257 N. 3rd Street, Oakland, which has provided antique furniture to be used as display pieces.

GCAC has maintained a retail storefront since 2000. The board of directors is currently working on an extensive rebranding and strategic planning endeavor. The board members hope to open a permanent gallery and office space facility within a year. In the meantime, pop-up galleries will be arranged and utilized in order to continue the mission of the organization.

The arts council's operations and programs are supported by an annual grant administered by the Maryland State Arts Council. Additional funding is provided through Garrett County government, membership support, and community contributions. To become a supporting member of Garrett County Arts Council, persons are encouraged to contact the office at 301-334-6580 or visit the website: www.garrettarts.org.

MUSIC AT PENN ALPS PRESENTING BAROQUE GROUP – Music at Penn Alps (MPA) will present Two Faces of the Baroque, a concert by Mountainside Baroque, on Saturday, July 2, at 7:30 p.m. This show will be given in the Penn Alps chapel, which is handicapped-accessible. "This will be a great opportunity to hear music of the baroque period performed on period instruments and in an appropriate setting – a small chapel," an MPA spokesperson said. "Baroque instruments tend to have a rather 'soft' sound compared to modern instruments designed for the concert hall. The ideal setting is one that is intimate, such as the chapel at Penn Alps where both the acoustics and the ambiance are ideal for this type of music." The members of the group are Brandi Barry, Baroque violin; Marc Bellassai, harpsichord; Sarah Lynn, Baroque flute and recorder; Ryan Mullaney, baritone and director; Lyle Nordstrom, lutes and director; and Arnie Tanimoto, viola da gamba. The program will consist of popular music from 17th and 18th centuries in England, including pieces by Dowland, Telemann, Byrd, and Leclair, plus anonymous works like Greensleeves and Bonny Sweet Robin. Tickets are $20 with those 19 and under being admitted for free. Tickets may be purchased online at musicatpennalps.org or at the gift shop at Penn Alps. '16 Chautauqua

Duke Ellington was one of the greatest composers of the 20th century with a career that spanned over 50 years. Gwendolyn Brooks, the first African American to win a Pulitzer Prize, is known for capturing the black experience in America through her poetry. Ernest Hemingway, considered one of the greatest American literary figures in history, continues to influence modern literature with his trademark style of prose.

July 5: Edward Kennedy "Duke" Ellington;

Born on April 29, 1899, in Washington, D.C., Ellington began playing the instrument at the age of 7, creating his first composition at the age of 15. Influenced by ragtime pianists of the time, he dropped out of high school to pursue a full-time career in music. Eventually he arrived in New York City, where, in 1927, he and his orchestra became the house band at the Cotton Club in Harlem. In his 50+ year career, the musicians collaborated with many of his peers, including Ella Fitzgerald, Billie Holiday, Frank Sinatra, Count Basie, and Billy Strayhorn, who composed the band's most famous theme, "Take the 'A' Train."

Ellington portrayer Tevin Brown is a vocalist, pianist, and actor from Baltimore. He graduated from Berklee College of Music in 2013 with a degree in professional music and a minor in music education. Brown attended the Baltimore School for the Arts, where he learned to sing in various languages, and had the opportunity to perform with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra.

He has performed with artists such as John Williams, Paul Simon, Valerie Simpson, and Bilal. As a recording artist, Brown is featured on Michael Bradley & Worship's debut gospel album, Great I Am, as well as on other international projects.

July 5 Pre-Show, Wally Weeks Family. Bluegrass and folk music will be performed by the Wally Weeks family on the evening of July 5, preceding the Duke Ellington performance. Wally's son and daughter, Timothy and Olivia, play a variety of instruments, including upright bass, guitar, mandolin, and fiddle.

July 6: Gwendolyn Elizabeth Brooks

Gwendolyn Elizabeth Brooks (1917-2000) was an African-American poet whose works illuminated the black experience in America. Living in Chicago, Brooks was able to experience and observe authentic black life, which served as a continual inspiration for much of her body of work. Publishing her first poem in a children's magazine at the age of 13, Brooks accumulated a portfolio of 75 published poems by the time she was 16.

After graduating from college in 1936, Brooks regularly published her poetry in national magazines such as Harper's and the Saturday Review of Literature. In 1945 she published her first book of poetry, A Street in Bronzeville, and in 1950, she became the first African-American to be given a Pulitzer Prize, which she won for Annie Allen, her second collection of poems. She succeeded Carl Sandburg as the poet laureate of Illinois in 1968; from 1985 to 1986 she served as consultant in poetry for the Library of Congress; and in 1995, she was awarded the National Medal of Arts by President Bill Clinton.

Dorothy Mains Prince, Brooks' portrayer, is the founder of Sojourns (Seeking Our Mothers… Ourselves), an educational enterprise designed to bring the lives of outstanding African-American women to students and community groups across the country. Prince holds bachelor's and master's degrees from Emerson College in Boston and a master of arts degree from Teachers College, Columbia University, in New York. For many years, she was an adjunct professor at Emerson College and directed community theatre groups in the Boston area.

July 6 Pre-Show: Anna Callis and Annika Naylor; Scout and Addie Best

Anna Callis and Annika Naylor, Southern High School band members and 2016 graduates, will be singing at 7 p.m., preceding the Brooks performance. They were both recipients of the Garrett County Arts Council's 2016 high school senior artistic achievement awards.

Also on July 6, teenagers Scout and Addie Best, 2016 4th place winners in the state competition for National History Day, will share that winning performance, which is a 10-minute Chautauqua-like performance describing the encounter between photographer Dorothea Lange and Florence Thompson, the subject of Lange's famous "Migrant Mother" photo.

July 7: Ernest Miller Hemingway

Ernest Miller Hemingway (1899-1961) was an American writer who was born on July 21, 1899, in Oak Park, Ill., into a well-educated family. Hemingway signed on to become an ambulance driver in 1918 for the Red Cross in Europe during World War I. Upon his return home, his work as a foreign correspondent for the Toronto Star sent him to Paris, where he met writers and artists such as Gertrude Stein, Pablo Picasso, Ezra Pound, and James Joyce. While in Paris, Hemingway wrote numerous short stories and poems that were published in the Toronto Star, but his work soon turned to fiction with the publication of his first novel, The Sun Also Rises, in 1926.

Hemingway returned to the U.S. in 1928, where he published more novels, including A Farewell to Arms, which was influenced by his military service.

In the post-war years, Hemingway resided in Cuba and continued to write, publishing The Old Man and the Sea, which earned the author the Pulitzer Prize for Fiction in 1953 and led to the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1954. Hemingway died in Ketchum, Idaho, on July 2, 1961, at the age of 61.

Hemingway portrayer Brian Gordon Sinclair, author of Hemingway On Stage, is a graduate of the National Theatre School of Canada and holds a master of arts degree in theatre from the University of Denver. He has also studied at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts in London, England, and at the National Film Board of Canada.

Sinclair has completed writing a six-play series, Hemingway On Stage: The Road to Freedom. The first five plays have premiered at the Hemingway Days Festival in Key West, Fla. The sixth and final play of the series premiered at the Hemingway Colloquium in Havana.

July 7 Pre-Show: Garrett County FIRST Team 1629, GaCo

Garrett County's High School FIRST Robotics Competition (FRC) Team 1629, the Garrett Coalition (GaCo), will provide the pre-show for the Hemingway performance.

Meshach 12.0, the robot Team 1629 built to play this season's game, will personally tell his story and the history of his team and its achievement.

Let's Get Down To Business!

This is a feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

The Red Barn At Eagles Landing

The Red Barn at Eagles Landing is currently available to rent for weddings, receptions, baby showers, bridal showers, reunions, graduation parties, and other such events. The barn can seat 199 guests, but a tent can also be rented to be used outside near the pond to accommodate more people.

The barn is over 105 years old, and offers a rustic setting with a classic elegance. There are hand-hewn barn beams, the orginal barn floors and walls, wagon wheel chandeliers and crystal chandeliers, and a collection of antique dairy items on display.

Hay is still made off the surrounding fields, adding to the charm. Easy parking also extends into the hay fields.

"God has blessed us with a beautiful location and farm, and with the simplicity of barns, we wanted to share with others our special place," owners Linda and Ron Kling said. "We as a family love and live the farm life/agriculture life/outdoor life, and again are happy to share this love of our farm and barn with others. We used to have cattle and horses, but since we sold them all, we could not see the barn standing empty and alone. We love having it used to bring joy to others."

The Red Barn is open from May to October. Since it currently has no heat or air units, the season is a little shorter. The Klings hope to add these units in the future so the season can be extended.

The farm is located at 456 Springs Road, Grantsville, which is near a heritage route in a rural farming community, but minutes from I-68.

Bookings are still available for 2016, and 2017 dates are also being accepted.

There is no in-house caterer, florist, photographer, or DJ, so renters are free to hire whomever they choose.

Also available to rent are unique displays and decorations, as well as white tablecloths and other items.

Oakland Oaks Start 10-0 With Sweeps Over Potomac, Orioles

The Oakland Oaks cruised to a 10-0 record in Penmar-WV league action with doubleheader sweeps over the Potomac Pirates and the Cumberland Orioles on Saturday and Sunday.

Oakland struck first against the Pirates in game one with a run in the top of the first and held on to the slim lead until knocking in four in the fifth to cruise to a 5-0 win.

Bryan Lenhart kept the Pirates off the board while pitching a complete-game shutout and only allowing four hits.

Matt Jeffrey led the Oaks at the plate with three singles. Frazier Brown and Alex Banks added two more singles, and Levi Noland cranked out a double.

The second game featured a steady stream of scoring from the Oaks as the team scored one run in all but the fifth and seventh innings.

After trailing 2-1 in the first, Oakland clawed its way to a 5-2 lead heading into the final inning.

Potomac began its rally attempt when Cayleb Broadwater blasted a triple, bringing in Aaron Broadwater to cut the lead to 5-3.

Tucker Burley helped bring in another run off an error at shortstop to bring the score to 5-4.

Then, another timely error put the Pirates in business with runners on second and third with only one out.

However, the Oaks put the game away when a ball hit to center field was caught and thrown quickly to second to double up the runner.

Oakland accounted for 13 hits in game two, featuring a pair of singles from Noland, Cutter Atha, and Cody Humberson. James Bolander also added a double.

Sunday's doubleheader resulted in another sweep for the Oaks as the team took down the Orioles 2-1 and 8-5 at Garrett College.

Game one was a pitching duel between the Oaks' Nathan King, who only gave up one hit, and a combo of Orioles Matt Maiers and Josh Delaney, who gave up three hits between them.

Oakland looked to take control early after scoring a run in the bottom of the first. However, the Orioles managed to limit further damage and tied the game up in the top of the fifth.

The score read 1-1 heading into the bottom of the final inning until Albie Eddie scored the game-winning run for the Oaks off a wild pitch.

The Oaks didn't take long to jump out ahead 7-0 after two innings thanks to four runs in the first and three in the third.

The Orioles managed to close the gap to 7-5 in the top of the sixth, but the Oaks nabbed an important insurance run before forcing the final three outs of the game.

Mike Logsdon, Tristan Lucas, and Samson Cropper each had two hits and two RBIs.

Hot Stove Baseball League

Grantsville SAL Sweeps Salisbury, Eagles, Rotary

Grantsville Sons of the American Legion enjoyed a 10-4 win over Salisbury in Hot Stove League action thanks to a 14-strikeout performance from Ian Tice last Wednesday.

Grantsville took control early with three runs in the bottom of the first and two in the third to take a 5-0 lead.

Salisbury wouldn't get on the board until gaining two runs in the top of the fifth, but Grantsville answered with a run in the bottom of the fifth and four in the sixth to extend the gap to 10-2.

The final inning featured a short rally attempt from Salisbury as the team gained back two runs, but Grantsville put the game away, grabbing the final outs.

Garrett Emery had three of Grantsville's 10 hits, all singles, while knocking in two runs.

Bradie Moore smacked a double and a single for two RBIs, and Mike Cutler brought in two more runs off a single.

Grantsville SAL came from behind to knock off the Cresaptown Eagles 7-4 in a battle between the top two teams in the American League East division, thanks to a four-run sixth inning at Memorial Field on Monday.

Grantsville took an early 1-0 lead in the top of the first and maintained the lead through the first three innings before adding another run in the top of the fourth.

The Eagles responded with an emphatic answer in the bottom of the fourth, scoring four runs and retaking the lead 4-2.

Grantsville added a run in the top of the fifth to move within a run, and followed that up with crucial defensive stops in the bottom of the fifth to stay within striking distance.

Despite not getting a hit in the top of the sixth, Grantsville scored four after receiving five walks and two batters getting hit by pitches to close out the evening's scoring.

Sam Beeman accounted for two of Grantsville's four hits, both singles, and scored twice.

Moore allowed just six hits on the mound and fanned five batters to earn the win.

Grantsville proceeded to take down Rotary 11-2 behind a quick offensive start and a complete-game, nine-strikeout performance from Ian Tice yesterday at Grantsville.

Grantsville warmed up the bats early with four runs in the bottom of the first and four in the fourth to jump out to an 8-2 lead.

Rotary couldn't find an answer as Grantsville added an insurance run in the fifth and two more in the sixth to extend the lead and finish off the game.

Hunter Tice had a big day with two hits and three RBIs in the win while Moore added a double and single with an RBI of his own.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

GREAT FINISH FOR JUNE SERIES
by Conrad Lundeen

Though variations in wind speed and direction forced several postponements, the easterlies provided the final weekend of the June Series with the best sail racing conditions so far this season. Windward-leeward courses through the slot put a premium on riding advantageous puffs toward the mark and avoiding headers with a contrary effect. Tracking the puffs would make and break many racers' fortunes.

The first Saturday race started off slow, with a 3-5 knot breeze. In the Gold Fleet, John Meredith managed an excellent start at the pin with several boats in hot pursuit. Though competition was fierce, Meredith rode his early lead to a first-place finish with Palmer and Gauthier in second and third.

In the Silver Fleet, Emily Meehan, Heidi Kammer, and Greg Shafer were the early contenders for the lead, and a host of boats was close behind. Andy Carrier caught a puff in the final spinnaker run to join the mix at the leeward mark. Conditions caused the Gold Fleet to stretch so far that trailing boats were overtaken by the Silver sailors at the final mark rounding. Unfortunately, this congestion disrupted the sprint to the finish. When the spray settled, Shafer, Kammer, and Carrier were the top three finishers. Good sportsmanship dictates that when you are way behind your fleet, you should stay clear of the next fleet's leaders so they can compete fairly without interference.

As usual, Masters mariners sailed a tight race, with the lead challenged on almost every tack. A gust at the leeward mark caused Meehan's boat to make an unplanned 360 and push them out of contention. Gregory, Riebel, and Vandell sailed to the line in an orderly 1, 2, 3 finish.

The wind built to 7-8 knots for the second Saturday race. Spinnenweber set the Gold Fleet pace early, with Palmer and Meredith in tow. Winds were favorable along the Thousand Acres shore, and those who ran out of lake or chose to gamble on an early port tack toward Turkey Neck found themselves sailing in the wrong direction. Meredith was one of the unfortunates. Spinnenweber maintained the lead until the final spinnaker run, when the following breeze pushed Palmer by him at the leeward mark. She nipped him at the finish by about two boat lengths. Meredith recovered to capture third.

There was tight racing among the Silver Fleet front runners until Heidi Kammer found the left-side lift and turned the move into a runaway lead and a first-place finish. Greg Shafer and Spencer Deakin made valiant efforts to catch up, but had to settle for second and third, respectively.

Light winds caused the race committee to postpone starts for 30 minutes on Sunday. It was worth the wait! Winds were 9 knots at the first start, and howling puffs during the afternoon made racing truly exciting. The most successful sailors played the puffs up the center of the lake and only approached shore with a cautious eye to the wind shifts. With the June Series standings on the line, the Gold Fleet race quickly evolved into a tight contest. Though Meredith found himself on the wrong side of the start line when the horn sounded, his quick restart soon had him fighting for primacy with Gauthier, Spinnenweber, Buffington, and Palmer. On the final spinnaker run, the two red boats were neck-and-neck. In the end, Gauthier managed to beat Meredith to the line. Spinnenweber was next across.

In the Silver Fleet, Connor Lothrup found the wind first and sailed masterfully to open a big lead. But Emily Meehan played the puffs perfectly and crept up his tail through the second leeward leg. At the finish, Emily was so close she hoped to eke out a win, but Connor was quicker and beat her by a boat length. Spencer and Marie Deakin sailed another solid race to finish third.

Of six boats sailing in the Masters Fleet, virtually all were in contention through the entire race. Once again, Dick Gregory managed to find wind to lift him out of nooks and crannies where few would venture, and finished first. Frank Vandell forged his way through shifting winds to keep his bow aimed at the mark and finished second. Al Riebel sailed a prudent course while Marlene danced a gibing jig with the spinnaker pole on the foredeck. Their third-place finish was well earned.

The Challenger and Laser fleets were greatly diminished last weekend. No Challenger boats sailed either day. Two Lasers sailed on Saturday, and four were out on Sunday.

Sail racing is full of drama leavened by moments of humor. On Saturday, Mike Geller was sailing in the Silver fleet with a less experienced crew. Mike heard a hissing sound when things quieted after dousing the spinnaker – like a tire going flat. He feared the bow bag was punctured, until he noted his crew's chest diameter had grown remarkably in the space of a minute. The crewman (who shall remain nameless) had inadvertently deployed his inflatable PFD when the ripcord snagged while stowing the spinnaker. Never a dull moment at Deep Creek.

Thanks to Emily Meehan, Frank Meehan, and many others for helping me get this column together. All mistakes are mine alone.

the Chesapeake Sustainable Business Council.

Beelar said there are also commitments from various panelists to address the topic "What's Next?" Paul Roberts, who served as a citizen representative on Gov. Martin O'Malley's Marcellus Shale Safe Drilling Initiative and is head of Citizen Shale, will argue that a total ban on fracking is necessary. James "Smokey" Stanton of the YRWA, will cover the town of Friendsville's recent ban initiative. Annie Bristow, Ph.D., also a member of Governor O'Malley's Marcellus Shale Safe Drilling Initiative and a member of Concerned Health Professionals of Maryland, will cover why fracking health harms cannot be prevented through regulations.

Other panelists will cover county-based activities, including a proposed amendment to the Deep Creek Lake Zoning Ordinance to prohibit wellheads in the DCL watershed and the upcoming county hearing concerning this proposal, plus the work of the Shale Gas Advisory Group.

Beelar added that invitations have been extended to groups and individuals who support fracking in order to present a balanced view.

Wicklein will introduce his film and bring the audience up-to-date from the events covered in the film.

Wicklein told The Republican back in February prior to the March release that he was inspired to make the documentary after seeing an article about fracking in the Jan. 18, 2015, Baltimore Sun that was in part titled "The Windfall and the Pitfall," and featured two photos – one of Billy Bishoff, a local pro-fracking businessman, and another of Elliott Perfetti of Blue Moon Rising, who is against the proposed introduction of the natural gas extraction process in Maryland.

"I saw that article and I thought, 'There is a real story here,'" Wicklein said. Having a long career in videography, Wicklein, who lives close to Towson, said he had not often pursued a current, divisive story such as the fracking controversy. His company, the Wicklein Group LLC, has much experience in making corporate and other organization videos, as well as several films about the United States Civil War. "And we know how that turned out," Wicklein said of the Civil War.

"So while there is some 'controversy' about that conflict, it's all in the past. And we have diary accounts, historian reports, all of that. But now we are documenting a real time issue, without knowing the conclusion. It is a vital story."

Wicklein said he came into the process with the idea of creating a brief video showing the pros and cons of fracking. What he ended up with is a 70-minute documentary of one of the most divisive issues in Garrett County history.

"I started this in the middle of the road," Wicklein said. "It wasn't like I had an agenda. I just saw the news value. I wanted everyone to be able to present their points of view, and invited people on both sides of the issue to take part.

"I believe if you shine a light on something, and you do it in an honest way, the truth will be told," Wicklein said.

He interviewed several local individuals, including Commissioner Paul Edwards, Eliott Perfetti, The Republican newspaper editor Don Sincell, and others, and also filmed related proceedings in Annapolis during the 2015 General Assembly.

The film opens at a county commissioners' meeting in Friendsville, held in April 2015. The scene helps to set the stage for the controversy, as the situation is outlined by Perfetti in a presentation he prepared for that meeting. Perfetti was the first person Wicklein actually spoke with when he began the research on the project, the filmmaker said.

"I didn't know anyone in Garrett County. I had never vacationed there, although I had come up to do some video work," he said.

Wicklein said his film helps the viewer to see "where the war really is" on the fracking issue, especially in the footage from Annapolis that shows how bills are presented, how hearings are conducted, and how testimony is given. "You can watch the unfiltered debate, and see how decisions are being made," he said. "I think viewers will see that if people want to have input into this issue, they have to play in the arena that includes the Maryland senate and house, and the governor."

Wicklein interviewed several officials in Annapolis, although his invitations to Sen. George Edwards and Del. Wendell Beitzel were declined, as was his invitation to the executive director of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, Nicole Christian.

Wicklein said he was disappointed that most of those in favor of bringing fracking to Garrett County would not agree to be interviewed for the film. However, Garrett County commissioner Paul Edwards, who has remained open-minded about the fracking issue, not coming out against it, but maintaining the stance that it must be completely safe for the county, did agree, which the filmmaker said he greatly appreciated.

"Commissioner Edwards' input added a lot of fabric to this whole story," Wicklein said, adding that he hopes people will come to see the film whether or not they support the introduction of fracking into the county and state.

"I encourage attendance by those who have not gotten way into this debate," he said. "They can then see what happened in the past year, where we are, and what the potential effects are going to be. This is not about pushing any agenda on anyone.

"People should be aware of what changes will come if fracking is brought to the area," Wicklein continued, "because there are definitely going to be major changes."

As an example, Wicklein cited a Towson University study that determined that the collective number of truck trips would total just under 3 million for a 10-year development period.

"No matter how you feel about any of the rest of this, just factor in 3 million truck trips over the next 10 years that are either going to happen or not happen," Wicklein said. "It's something to think about."

"We are in the middle of something historic. And truly, turning the camera on these things as they happen is sometimes overwhelming," Wicklein said in the February interview with The Republican, "but only momentarily. This is a story to be told... and however it turns out, it's going to affect everyone's lives in Garrett County. It's not a small thing.

"I want to see the best outcome for western Maryland," he said. "It's a beautiful corner of the world."

The Board made arrangements to inspect various school buildings throughout the summer for making records of needed repairs, etc. Resignations were accepted of Miss Ola King, primary teacher in Accident elementary school for several years, and Miss Pauline Springer, teacher in the upper grades in Kempton. Miss King will go to Prince George's county, and Miss Springer to Allegany county.

In cooperation with the Extension Service Department of Garrett county, Mrs. C. H. Merrill is showing at the Lake Shore at McHenry on Tuesday evening, July 6, at 8:30 o'clock, the following motion pictures from the United States Department of Agriculture:

The showing of these pictures will be free to the public.

Fire Company In Need of Funds

A food sale is being held for the benefit of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department on Saturday, July 3, beginning at ten o'clock in the office of the West Maryland Power Company.

The money thus raised will be used to pay for equipment and other necessary expenses. A liberal patronage is urged, as it was pointed out that the local fire company stands as a protection against property loss among the town's citizens and citizens of the communities within twenty miles or more. The company is badly in need of funds, it was also stated.

A filled picnic basket will be given away sometime during the day.

Canning Company Operating At Mountain Lake Park

The Mount Airy Canning Company at Mountain Lake Park is now operating on a full schedule, having started the canning of peas on Monday, according to Clifton Sponseller, manager of the plant.

At the present time the company is giving employment to 130 men and women. The canning of peas will require at least five weeks, as it was reported there is a large crop this year. More than eleven hundred acres were planted by various farmers in the county and the growing season has been quite favorable for the production of the vegetable.

At the conclusion of the pea canning operations, the cannery will undertake the canning of corn.

SAVAGE RIVER DAM COST IS RAISED TO $2,700,000

Original Estimate of Cost of Project Was $1,600,000

The estimated cost of the Savage Rievr dam was increased by $1,100,000 Friday, according to a statement issued by W. D. Luplow, district river engineer, raising to $2,700,000 the total cost of the project based on present labor and material costs. Previous estimates were $1,600,000. The new estimate is exclusive of rights-of-way that Luplow said will be furnished by local interests.

The increase in cost, Luplow said, was because of the necessity for raising the dam's height fifteen feet to obtain the required storage capacity of 20,000 acre feet and to furnish greater protection against destruction from unusual rainfall.

Construction of the Savage River dam will provide stream control of the Upper Potomac River and allow greater industrial expansion in Cumberland.

Surveys there for flood control work will be completed within a few days, according to John R. Avery, Jr., engineer in charge of the work. Enough data has been collected, Avery said, to provide the compilation of plans. Control will be based on a river channel through Ridgeley, dredging of Wills creek and erection of walls along both the river and the creek stragetic points.

MAY ALTER CCC RULES SO AS TO PERMIT ENTRANCE

Would Allow Youths To Enlist After High School Course

Proposed regulations that would make a larger number of young men eligible for the Civilian Conservation Corps were noted Friday in letters to the county welfare boards, asking for revised figures on possible enrollment.

J. Milton Patterson, executive secretary of the Board of State Aid and Charities, said "a great many boys are just out of high school and have no positions in view. Here is a real opportunity for them to get two years of fine outdoor training."

Patterson called attention to the fact that the new CCC bill has not been passed by Congress. He said that although some sections of the bill were to be altered, it was likely that four changes would be made in previous requirements so that more men would be eligible for enlistment.

His letter to the county welfare boards noted these possible changes:

The age limit would be reduced from 28 to 23 years, making the new age requirements from 17 to 23 years.

Applicants need no longer be in need of relief. The proposed law simply states "unemployment and in need of employment."

Two years would be the total eligibility length of service, which would rule out any former enrollee who has previously served for two years or more, including all previous enrollment.

Enrollees must have dependents to whom to make allotments, although it was possible that permission would be granted to single unattached men who have no dependents.

The luncheon will be served at two o'clock under the direction of Mrs. June Grimes, manager of the hotel.

THAT SENATOR AGAIN——

An Editorial

Senator Friend has again come forth in an effort to get a little more publicity. He has mailed out a circular letter condemning the local press, raving about the County Commissioners, the County Treasurer, the relief board, school bonds and various other things, and getting the WPA mixed up with the PWA.

The article is spread over so much territory that it is extremely thin, and if tested, wouldn't hold water.

The title given the article is the best part of it:—"Every citizen has a right to know the truth about Garrett county affairs." That statement is exactly right and one in which The Republican agrees one hundred per cent. What the Senator forgot to mention was that the truth could not be learned through the conglomeration of words that go to make up the letter he sent out. The Republican, however, was not on the mailing list, whether by intent or otherwise we are unable to state.

Senator Friend says, "The citizens of Garrett county are entitled to an unbiased press." An unbiased press to Senator Friend is one that is willing to print his ridiculous twaddle as fast as he can have it manufactured in order to push himself before the public regardless of what the subject matter is. The columns of The Republican, it is hoped, are more valuable than that to the people it has served for more than sixty years.

To go over the whole matter would be a waste of space, but a particular point where it concerns this office, should be explained to the taxpayers and citizens.

The Senator is purposely misleading. He states, "Some of the counties have a law requiring the commissioners to ask for bids on any expenditure of more than five hundred dollars. The printing of financial statements has been costing our taxpayers a large sum of money each year." Any reader would naturally suppose after reading that portion of Senator Friend's mush-pot literature that the publication of the financial statement must cost hundreds of dollars more than $500.

The cost of publishing the financial statement is based on the space used. The charge for space is uniform and is no greater for the county's publications than for any individual who uses space for legal advertising. The actual cost for publishing the financial statement last year was $355. That, in our opinion, was money well spent—it showed the people of the county where their money went. It made public what went on in the office of the Commissioners; it was a safeguard against reckless spending.

On the other hand, take Senator Friend's career in the Legislature: He received $5 per day for 90 days, or $450; he was allowed $5 per day for a secretary, or $450; he was allowed train fare to Annapolis amounting to more than $100. That's a total of $1,000 of the taxpayers' money which he seems to be so anxious to safeguard. He accomplished nothing at Annapolis.

In the case of the financial statement, the taxpayers got something for their money.

Senator Friend was responsible for a law passed changing the fiscal year to begin January 1. Any farmer well knows that after purchasing fertilizer, seed, machinery, etc., for spring planting, that it is next to impossible to pay taxes until in the fall when crops are harvested. Yet Mr. Friend wants to blame the Commissioners for levying $1 for this year to take care of his mistake, made either purposely or through ignorance. But this does not matter to Mr. Friend—he has access to a pretty good bank account.

The Senator swears that every statement in his circular is true to the best of his knowledge and belief. The poor quality of truth in his statements was proved several weeks ago in The Republican, and which Senator Friend has not yet attempted to disprove.

The wildness of his beliefs is shown in the statement that there is a "clique" in the county that everybody must bow down to. Who are the members? He doesn't name them. Next time he may imagine there are ghosts in Kaese's Mill. That would be about as sensible and have as much basis of fact as his ramblings in his word tangle. Proof of his statements is missing.

During all this strife in the country Garrett county has not yet had any C. I. O. organizers, nor any Reds, nor any Communists. But it does have its agitators, and among them is Clifford Friend, who could be called king.

The new parsonage will be of brick construction and will be in keeping with the church which was completed last year. The structure will be placed between the church and the residence of Mrs. Harry White and will front on Oak street. Construction will begin this month.

The welfare boards of the 23 counties of Maryland and Baltimore City have been informed that they have been allotted $1,468,258.96 to carry on their public assistance for old age, dependent children and blind during the three months beginning July 1.

The distribution of the relief funds was announced by Samuel E. Shannahan, chairman of the Board of State Aid and Charities. He said that $614,966.96 would be divided among the counties and the rest would go to Baltimore City.

The allotment to this county would be divided as follows: Old age, $19,631,28; dependent children, $11,475.54; blind, $670.

Mr. Charles Howard and his sisters arrived in Oakland yesterday and are occopying their home on Alder street for the remainder of the summer.

Independence Day Will Be Observed Here on Monday, July 5

Since Independence Day falls this year on Sunday, it will be observed generally on Monday, July 5.

The day is expected to pass quietly in Oakland, as there is no special celebration booked for that day locally.

All banking institutions will be closed both Saturday and Monday and most of the other places of business will be closed on Monday. The postoffice will observe holiday hours, the window being open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.

Many Garrett county residents will spend the day picnicking, motoring and in visiting at other points.

The Mayor and Council recently passed an ordinance regulating the sale of fireworks and prohibiting them from being set off in the streets or alleys or within the town limits, and this is expected to lessen the danger of injuries being sustained and also prevent fires that may ensue.

VINDEX WOMAN SETTLES COURT CASE FOR $1,200

Coal Company Buys Property Allegedly Damaged By Gob Pile

A settlement was effected yesterday in the Circuit Court here between Mrs. Daisy Riggleman, administratrix, and the Manor Coal Company of Vindex, in a case that has been in the courts for several years.

The late Richard Riggleman, thru his attorneys, originally entered suit for damages to the extent of $5,000 against the coal company, alleging that his property consisted of 10½ acres, had been made undesirable on account of a "gob" pile of the company burning nearby.

The case has been on the court docket since that time, and yesterday a settlement was made whereby Mrs. Riggleman, widow, is to furnish the coal company with a deed for the property for the price of $1,200. In the settlement Mrs. Riggleman was given the right to occupy the dwelling and use the outbuildings until October, 1937, when the property is to be vacated.

A. T. Matthews and W. R. Offutt represented Mrs. Riggleman, while the coal company was represented by E. R. Jones and W. W. Dawson.

MANY VISITORS EXPECTED AT PARK FOR ACTIVITIES

Summer School Of Missions Will Be Held Week Preceding Mountain Choir Festival

FESTIVAL JULY 17 AND 18

During the week preceding the fourth annual Mountain Choir Festival to be held at Mountain Lake Park on Saturday and Sunday, July 17 and 18, many additional visitors will come to Maryland's mountain colony. They will take part in programs including the study of home and foreign missions, Biblical research, religious pageantry, and several courses of lectures offered by the twenty-first annual session of the Mountain Lake Park Interdenominational Summer School of Missions, from Saturday, July 10, to Friday, July 16, inclusive.

At the close of the week ancient church music and almost forgotten medieval church ritual will be revived when the Mountain Choir's festival chorus of 1000 voices, led by the distinguished conductor of the Westminster Choir, Dr. John Finley Williamson, brings the festival to a conclusion on Sunday night, July 18.

Following a Solemn Procession at sunset, in which many hundreds of brilliantly vested choristers, altar boys and clergy will take part, Dr. Felix G. Robinson, founder of the Festival, will act as celebrant during a Choral Eucharist. This Eucharist will employ music and text dating from the sixth century—probably the highest point in the development of liturgy in the Christian Church. Intoning the Solesmes Version of Plain Song, edited by Canon Wilfred Douglas, and set to English words, Dr. Robinson will be assisted by his brother, Reverend Ralph C. Robinson.

Prizes totalling $175 in cash will be awarded to choirs from Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania communities competing in the choir contest to be held on Sunday afternoon, July 18, from 12:30 to 4:00 o'clock, in the large open-air rain-proof auditorium. Harvey Gaul, Pittsburgh organist, will act as adjudicator of the contest.

Steinway and Son, New York, are freighting a concert grand piano to Mountain Lake Park where it will be used by Henry Holden Huss, composer, at the Mountain Lake Hotel, July 12 to 16, and at the festival on July 18.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company's women's chorus will be a feature of the Sunday afternoon session of the festival, according to an announcement by Dr. Robinson. Word was received a day or two ago from Robert G. VanZant, department of public relations, that the chorus would attend.

Dr. Robinson also announced that a choir from York, Pa., under the direction of Henry Rebert, had applied for entrance in the choral contest to be conducted Sunday afternoon. The request was granted.

City To Construct Reservoir

At a special meeting of the Mayor and Town Council last Friday evening a resolutions was passed authorizing the construction of a reservoir of 300,000 gallons capacity, the material in its construction to be gunnite.

The adpotion of the resolution came after D. E. Davis, of the Chester Engineers of Pittsburgh, had discussed the proposed reservoir with members of Council. He recommended a tank of 150,000 gallons capacity and the construction to be of gunnite.

Mr. Davis stated that the present supply of water did not warrant the erection of a larger tank. It was the original plan to build the auxiliary reservoir with a capacity of 800,000. Lloyd MacMurray, engineer for the State Board of Health, concurred in Mr. Davis' recommendations.

Construction is to start in the near future.

Council also considered a request from the Oakland Rotary Club for $50 to help defray the cost of erecting advertising signs.

and families through ongoing home visits from registered nurses and trained paraprofessionals, as well as linking these women to health, education, and support programs and services. Services continue until age 5 or the child transfers to another program.

The program provides care and support for low-income, at-risk mothers to have a healthy pregnancy, provide responsible and competent care for their children, and become more economically secure.

• Partners After School @ Oakland – The program offers homework help, tutoring, academic enrichment, cultural enrichment, service learning, and recreation, and is a targeted delinquency prevention strategy. It serves youth at Southern Middle School in grades 3-8 who reside in the Broad Ford Elementary School, Yough Glades Elementary School, and Southern Middle School attendance areas.

• Healthy Communities/ Healthy Youth – This is a prevention and diversion environmental strategy for all youth, including disconnected youth ages 16-24 years old and minor children of incarcerated adults that utilizes community based activities that are alcohol, tobacco, and other drugs free.

Activities are targeted toward school-age youth and their families, and utilizes the evidence-based 40 Developmental Assets framework, which is grounded in research in youth development, resiliency, and prevention.

A BRAND NEW MURAL, which will be dedicated to all local public safety personnel, was erected on the south side of Oakland Town Hall last Friday. The creator of the work was local artist Mark Stutzman of Eloqui Studio, Mtn. Lake Park, and the sign work was done by Deer Park Signs. Depicted in the action mural are persons involved at all stages of an emergency – 911 dispatchers, the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad, the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, Trooper 5 of the Maryland State Police, Garrett County Sheriff's Office personnel, and Oakland Police Department. The project was funded in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council. Pictured below is Deer Park Signs owner Jesse Brobst working with Jim Feather, also of Deer Park Signs (and a member of the Oakland VFD) arranging the various sections of the work prior to attaching them to the building.

• Mobile Outreach Education Community Center – This program utilizes a refurbished bus to provide outreach education to improve outcomes for disconnected youth, reduce childhood hunger, and reduce the impact of incarceration on children, families and communities.

The bus will be located in underserved, low income areas on a regular/rotating weekly schedule and will promote the health, education, and wellness of children and families.

• Summer Youth Employment Supplement – This provides "quality" summer work experience and career development programming for at-risk youth. The funding will provide approximately 14 additional Workforce Incentive Act Summer Youth Employment slots as an expansion of the Western Maryland Consortium's Summer Youth Employment Program.

Youth will be employed for up to six weeks of supervised work experience, with an optional week. Participants will work in a variety of entry-level jobs at government agencies, hospitals, summer camps, nonprofits, small businesses, law firms, museums, sports enterprises, and retail organizations.

"The Governor's Office for Children recognizes and appreciates the unique role of the Local Management Boards in understanding local concerns and developing programs for children, youth, and families," said executive director Arlene Lee. "The LMBs are the 'boots on the ground' in our communities, and we are grateful to be able to fund so many promising programs in the coming year."

Through an extensive planning process that involved input from hundreds of community members in every jurisdiction, the LMBs identified strategies that will address critical needs for children, youth, and families in their jurisdictions.

The programs and strategies proposed by LMBs for FY 2017 include interventions for some of Maryland's most vulnerable populations: families and children impacted by caregiver incarceration; disconnected youth between the ages of 16 and 24 who are neither working nor attending school; children and youth who are food-insecure; and youth who are experiencing homelessness.

"I tasked my Children's Cabinet to focus specifically on working to ensure Maryland's struggling families are on a pathway to economic stability and opportunity," said Gov. Larry Hogan. "From implementing anti-hunger initiatives and providing job readiness programs and parenting workshops, these grants maximize state resources and enable our LMBs to assist thousands of families throughout the state."

The American Way

Thomas Jefferson and countless others like him fathered our great nation in freedom. We have inherited a precious legacy that we must protect for future generations. God has also given us a freedom... free will. We are free to act, free to speak, and free to live and worship as we choose. On Independence Day, celebrate freedom. Worship regularly and celebrate God's gift of free will, too.

Delighting in the Misfortunes of Others

It is surprising that we don't have an English word for taking pleasure in the failures or misfortunes of others, given how common the experience is. The Germans have a word for this, Schadenfreude, which literally means "harm joy," and this experience can range from enjoying the spectacle of seeing someone being punished who really deserves it, to getting pleasure from seeing your least favorite team lose, to the less respectable experience of laughing when we see someone slip and fall. This is not one of humanity's greatest attributes, but its universality suggests there might be some function that it serves. Perhaps it's just a way to make us feel better, to feel that in comparison to those who we work and go to school with, we really are superior. After all, when I get an A and the guy behind me gets an F, this just reflects my superior intelligence and better efforts at studying. And if the guy behind me didn't study, didn't he deserve to get an F? Perhaps the deeper meaning of this experience is that it points to our innate sense of justice. We want to see criminals punished and lazy students fail their exams. However, we shouldn't take too much pleasure in the misfortunes of others, and should remember that compassion is the glue which holds society together. When people get their just desserts, it's okay to smile a bit, on the inside of course, and not too enthusiastically.

'Tyrant' returns for a third season after a major cliffhanger

By Jacqueline Spendlove
TV Media

Who doesn't love a good cliffhanger? In true finale fashion, "Tyrant" ended its sophomore season with some gasp-worthy drama and unanswered questions, not the least of which surround the maybe-death of a key character.

With decent yet quiet ratings, the Middle East-set drama left many doubting that it would score a third-season renewal, but it was announced back in October that the series would indeed live to see another day. The season 3 premiere of "Tyrant" airs Wednesday, July 6, on FX.

There's no denying that the controversial "Tyrant" has had its ups and downs. The product of Emmy-winning "Homeland" creator Gideon Raff, the series lost a good chunk of its viewers after a respectable premiere. The numbers started to creep back up as season 2 progressed, however, averaging 2.47 million viewers and pulling in some of its best numbers in its final weeks.

The series follows Bassam "Barry" Al-Fayeed (Adam Rayner, "Hawthorne"), the Americanized younger son of a Middle Eastern dictator — a tyrant, if you will — who has spent the last 20 years avoiding his past. Far from following in his father's footsteps, Barry has built a life for himself as a mild-mannered pediatrician living in Pasadena with his American wife, Molly (Jennifer Finnigan, "The Bold and the Beautiful"), and their teenaged children, Sammy (Noah Silver, "The Borgias") and Emma (Anne Winters, "Wicked City").

In the pilot, with his family in tow, Barry reluctantly returns to his war-torn homeland, the fictional nation of Abuddin, for his nephew's wedding, and soon witnesses the brutality of his father's rule and of his heir-apparent older brother, Jamal (Ashraf Barhom, "The Kingdom," 2007).

When their father is killed in the midst of a growing revolution against the ruling family, the ruthless and unstable Jamal takes his place as president of Abuddin, with his formidable wife, Leila (Moran Atias, "Crash") — who's also an old flame of Barry's — at his side. Realizing that his temperamental brother lacks any sense of justice or morality, Barry, harboring dreams of improving life in his homeland, plots with members of the U.S. government to overthrow Jamal and nip his tyrannical reign in the bud. At the end of season 1, Barry's imprisoned for treason, with his brother put in the difficult position of just what to do with him.

The complicated relationship between the two brothers — two wildly different people who still have affection for each other despite it all — is a major focus of the series.

"It's deeply complex. It's Cain and Abel stuff," Rayner said in a Collider interview. "They love each other. They hate each other. They rely on each other. They are rivals to each other, politically and sexually. ... They could form an unstoppable alliance or they could tear each other apart."

This leaves that much more up in the air with last season's cliffhanger: Jamal is blasted in a shootout assassination attempt, his fate left uncertain. His death would make the far more benevolent Barry the new president of Abuddin, but it would be foolish to think that such an eventuality would be met with smooth sailing. If anything, it might just spell more hard times for Barry.

"[The show] puts all of the characters in a position of making devastating choices," Atias said during a visit to "Good Day L.A." "That's what, really, it means to be leaders of a country in the Middle East."

Moran Atias as seen in "Tyrant"

Of course, if Jamal doesn't pull through — and popular opinion is that he won't — a new chief villain will make his or her rise in season 3, as it's foolish to assume that Barry will turn the country around and live out the rest of his days benignly ruling Abuddin unchallenged. Leila, for one, remains a force to be reckoned with, and while the naive might say that her power dies with her husband, no one who knows the character would assume she would simply step meekly off her pedestal.

And can we talk about Sammy? Many of us are wondering just what the future holds for Barry's rather bratty son. Unlike his sister (whom, it should be noted, we haven't been seeing enough of lately), Sammy is all about his family's position in Abuddin, and far more so after learning of own his gargantuan inheritance. Not only does he admire Jamal's arrogance and sense of privilege, but we all know how well entitled teenage boys with daddy issues behave when they've got millions of dollars to their name. One season 3 spoiler suggests that Sammy may start to go the way of his iron-fisted uncle, using his father to further his own aims, political and otherwise.

Whatever season 3 has in store, it appears that "Tyrant" has overcome much of its earlier controversy. People don't seem to care much anymore that Barry is played by a decidedly white Brit — or if they do, they're not as loud about it — and arguments about whether the show negatively stereotypes Arabs are far less rampant than they were when the show started.

See how it all plays out when "Tyrant" kicks off its third season Wednesday, July 6, on FX.

Living out live

NBC's fourth live musical has found its star

By Andrew Warren
TV Media

Living out live: It's now an annual tradition: this December, NBC is set to broadcast a live production of a classic musical. By any metric, 2015's "The Wiz Live" was a huge success for the peacock network, and casting is well underway for this year's "Hairspray Live," set to broadcast Wednesday, Dec. 7.

"Hairspray Live" will be based on the 2002 Tony Award-winning Broadway musical, which was adapted into a major motion picture starring John Travolta ("Grease," 1978), Zac Efron ("17 Again," 2009) and Nikki Blonsky ("Valemont") back in 2007.

"Hairspray" is the story of Tracy Turnblad, a teenage girl living in 1960s Baltimore who is an endless faucet of optimism, despite her weight and her unconventionally progressive views on race. For "Hairspray Live," the casting folks at NBC have gone outside of the box for their Tracy: newcomer Maddie Baillio beat out more than 1,000 other women to take the high-profile role, despite it being her first-ever audition.

It's the kind of opportunity that most aspiring actors and performers can only dream of, and Baillio is starring alongside some pretty big names. Academy Award winner Jennifer Hudson ("Dreamgirls," 2006) has been cast as record producer Motormouth Maybelle, alongside Emmy winner Martin Short ("Mars Attacks," 1996), Harvey Fierstein ("Independence Day," 1996) and Derek Hough ("Dancing With the Stars"), with more casting announcements expected as the premiere date draws closer.

NBC's first annual live musical production, "The Sound of Music Live," was broadcast in 2013, and the tradition has become a popular one. Its followups, 2014's "Peter Pan Live" and last year's "The Wiz Live" have continued the tradition, with recorded broadcasts being aired after the live showing for audiences at home who missed the live performance.

"Hairspray Live," starring newcomer Baillio, airs live Wednesday, Dec. 7, on NBC.

Craig's new direction: James Bond is moving on. While Daniel Craig ("Skyfall," 2012) hasn't officially retired from the role of the world's most famous secret agent — which he's played in four films, starting with 2006's "Casino Royale" — the actor has been very vocal about his desire to move on from the role that made him a household name.

Whether the English actor does step into 007's shoes for another outing, he's definitely keeping himself busy. With a new TV series in which he's set to both star and executive produce receiving a straight-to-series order from Showtime, Craig's possible post-Bond world won't be a quiet one.

"Purity" is based on the book of the same name by Jonathan Franzen. Spanning several decades and multiple continents, it is the story of a woman named Purity who, caught up in her youthful idealism and search for her father's identity, winds up involved in some of the world's biggest secrets.

With plans to begin filming in 2017 for a two-season run, the project is still in its very early days. Craig, in addition to his role as an executive producer, plays an East German man who commits a murder to help save the woman he loves, and who then is swept up in global events when the Berlin Wall comes down.

"Purity" is written, directed and executive produced by Todd Field ("Eyes Wide Shut," 1999), and is planned to span 20 episodes. No premiere date has been announced for the project.

Strange BUT TRUE

It was noted American computer scientist Alan Kay who made the following sage observation: "A change in perspective is worth 80 IQ points."

* The pirate spider eats almost nothing besides other spiders. Researchers say this presents some problems when it comes time to mate.

* Isaac Asimov is probably best known for his classic science-fiction novels, including the Foundation Series and "I, Robot," but he was much more than a pulp writer. His works are so wide-ranging that he has entries in nine out of the 10 major categories of the Dewey Decimal system. In addition to his science-fiction works, he wrote history ("The Greeks: A Great Adventure," "The Egyptians"), literary works ("Asimov's Guide to Shakespeare," "Asimov's Guide to the Bible,"), humor ("Lecherous Limericks," "Treasury of Humor"), mystery (the Black Widowers series) and popular science ("The Intelligent Man's Guide to Science"). Asimov earned a Ph.D. from Columbia University in biochemistry, which he also taught; he published academic works in science and mathematics. His prolific life is detailed in three works of autobiography, and he and his wife, Janet, even found time to co-author a self-help book titled "How to Enjoy Writing: A Book of Aid and Comfort."

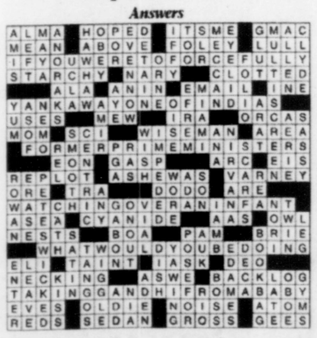

* You might be surprised to learn that the electric fan was invented in the 19th century. Then again, at the moment that fact might not be surprising; the heat of summer can be a powerful motivator.

* Though the ukulele is commonly associated with the Hawaiian Islands, it didn't originate there. The instrument actually came from Portugal, where it was known as a machete, and was introduced to the islands around 1870 by sailors.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

* On July 5, 1775, the Continental Congress adopts the Olive Branch Petition, which appeals directly to King George III and expresses hope for reconciliation between the colonies and Great Britain. George refused to accept the petition. A year later, the Declaration of Independence took a much stronger stance.

* On July 4, 1804, Lewis and Clark stage the first-ever Fourth of July celebration west of the Mississippi River. The expedition stopped near a creek, which they named Independence Creek in honor of the day.

* On July 9, 1877, the All England Croquet and Lawn Tennis Club begins its first lawn tennis tournament at Wimbledon. The tournament was suspended after semifinals were held July 12 in order to leave London fans free for a cricket match.

* On July 10, 1925, in Dayton, Tennessee, the so-called Monkey Trial begins with John Thomas Scopes, a high-school science teacher, accused of teaching evolution in violation of Tennessee law. The town took on a carnival-like atmosphere and included a chimpanzee that wore a plaid suit, brown fedora and white spats.

* On July 6, 1942, in Nazi-occupied Holland, 13-year-old Anne Frank and her family are forced to take refuge in a hidden area of an Amsterdam warehouse. The day before, Anne's older sister, Margot, had received a call-up notice to be deported to a Nazi work camp.

* On July 8, 1960, captured CIA pilot Francis Gary Powers, who was shot down two months before while flying a secret spy mission over Moscow, is charged with espionage by the Soviet Union. It was a huge setback in U.S.-Soviet relations.

• On July 7, 1983, Samantha Smith, an 11-year-old girl from Maine who had written to Soviet leader Yuri Andropov about her worries of a nuclear war, begins a two-week goodwill visit to the Soviet Union at Andropov's invitation.

Should Cats Chew On Bones?

-DEAR PAW'S CORNER: My orange-and-white cat, "Gerald," loves to gnaw on chicken bones. If I don't watch him, he'll jump on the counter and grab a bone from a discard plate or even strip bones off of a baked chicken, leaving the meat! Is he a reincarnated dog? -- Blake in Miami

DEAR BLAKE: It's certainly not unheard of: Cats may be domesticated, but they're still predators, and gnawing on bones is a way of getting to some of the tastiest parts of a fresh kill, such as the marrow, as well as a lot of nutrients not concentrated in the meat. However, gnawing on cooked bones is a danger because the bones could splinter. And the fact that he's grabbing them unsupervised means he could nab smaller bones that really are problematic. So first, cover up unattended food securely. Next, double-check about the bone-gnawing with Gerald's vet, who will likely have some recommendations. Review Gerald's diet: Is he getting enough nutrients in his dry or wet cat food? If you want to keep giving him bones, raw bones are safer; however, that potentially introduces dangerous bacteria like salmonella. Try lightly steaming a few drumsticks, so they're just cooked, then cool them completely. If he only wants the bones, debone large-boned cuts like the thigh or drumstick, "shock" the bones in boiling water for about 30 seconds and then cool completely. Make up a few, and keep them in the refrigerator. Give Gerald one a day. Be sure to monitor his health, behavior and bowel movements closely to make sure he isn't ingesting splinters or experiencing any adverse effects from these bony treats.

Collecting
by Larry Cox

Q: At a church sale, I purchased a wall pocket in the Blackberry pattern and marked "Roseville." I paid $50 for it because I know enough about art pottery to realize that Roseville is collectible, and the piece I bought quite unusual. Did I get a good deal? -- Betty, Rio Rancho, New Mexico
A: The Blackberry pattern was introduced by Roseville in 1932. It is easily identified by its collar of russet and green leaves, dark blue berries, and a textured background in varying shades of brown and green. The pieces are unmarked or have foil or paper labels. Your wall pocket, which should measure 8-1/4 inches, is valued in the $650 to $950 range, according to most of the price guides I consulted. Yes, you got a terrific deal.

Q: I have three transistor radios from the 1960s. Two need repair. Whom do you suggest I contact? -- Robert, Portsmouth, Virginia and A: Transistor radios are a little complex to repair because of capacitors that tend to degrade and the difficultly of getting to the PC boards, especially in smaller models. I did find a source that might be able to help you: John's Vintage Radio Repair, 144 N. Beverwyck Rd., No. 208, Lake Hiawatha, NJ 07034. For repair costs and shipping instructions go to http://johnsvintageradio.com.

Q: I have a Coca-Cola tray from the 1920s featuring a couple playing golf. Do I have a valuable item? -- Dorothy, Ladue, Missouri
A: Yes, if it is authentic. Coca-Cola collectors must be aware that many of the old beverage trays have been reproduced, and some even aged to look much older than they actually are. If your tray is the real deal, it was issued in 1926 and is valued in the $500-$750 range, depending on condition.

Q: My husband was born May 20, 1942. I would like to get him an original newspaper that was published the date of his birth. Can you recommend someone who might be able to help? -- Steve, Craig, Colorado
A: Timothy Hughes buys and sells vintage newspapers and might be able to help you. Contact is P.O. Box 3636, Williamsport, PA 17701-8636; tim@rarenewspapers.com; and http://rarenewspapers.com.

COMPLETE LEADERSHIP CAMP – Selected cadets from the Southern Garrett High School JROTC program recently completed the U.S. Army's JROTC weeklong cadet leadership camp (JCLC) at nearby Camp Dawson, W.Va. The army-paid camp provided cadets opportunities to experience activities not normally found at their home school, as well as opportunities to practice their leadership skills while in various leadership positions. Some 270 cadet and 45 JROTC instructors from various schools in Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia descended onto Camp Dawson for this event. The cadets were exposed to various physically and mentally demanding activities, including a 60-foot rappel tower, orienteering course, leadership reaction course, drown proofing, confidence course, and the air rifle range. Southern's 10 cadets earned the JCLC and orienteering awards. Kayla Harris was the top scoring female air rifle shooter for her company. Cadets Vanessa Calling, Jeremy Groves, Mason Hordubay, Megan DeBerry, and Johnathan Pelland all had leadership duties from squad leader through platoon sergeant and platoon leader. In these rolls, the cadets experienced leading a large group of peers throughout the day to accomplish various activities that tested the leaders' skill at providing purpose, direction, and motivation to their fellow cadets. "The cadets received a really good physical and mental work out," said Southern's senior army instructor Ralph Sheaffer. "I don't know of many leadership camps where high school students are placed in leadership rolls the first day of camp and are expected to lead by example. But these cadets stepped up to the challenge." In the above left photo, from left, Kayla Harris, Megan DeBerry, Richard Granke, and Mason Hordubay plot compass locations before testing their map reading skills against the expert orienteering course. Above right, Garrett Murphy doesn't let the high hurdle obstacle on the obstacle course hinder his way. Below left, Vanessa Calling begins her descent from atop the 60-foot rappel tower at Camp Dawson. Below right, Sierra Hawley ties the rope fast as she and other cadets prepare to build an one-rope bridge.

PROUDLY SERVING OUR COMMUNITY AND REGION SINCE 1971

Writers Inst. To Feature Two Writers

JAMES RADA JR.

DR. NEAL BROOKS

"Historical Perspectives" is the theme of Garrett College's July session of the Mountain Maryland Writers Institute, featuring published authors James Rada Jr. and Dr. Neal Brooks.

"With writing sessions occurring on location at the Evergreen Heritage Center in Allegany County and both the Garrett County Historical Society Museum and Oakland Train Station/Museum in Oakland, this workshop will provide participants with subject material literally at their fingertips," said Dolores Youse, director of the Mountain Maryland Writer's Institute and assistant professor of English at Garrett College.

James Rada Jr., a resident of Swanton, has written many works of historical fiction and non-fiction history. His work includes the books Saving Shallmar: Christmas in a Coal Town, Canawlers: A Novel of the C&O Canal, and Battlefield Angels: The Daughters of Charity Work as Civil War Nurses.

Dr. Neal Brooks, also a resident of Garrett County, brings a lifelong interest in all phases of history, particularly in aspects of Maryland and the local community. He has considerable experience as a published writer, especially as co-author of A History of Baltimore County and Baltimore County Panorama, which both sold out the original press runs.

This session of the Mountain Maryland Writer's Institute will begin Friday evening, July 8, with a 6:30 p.m. "meet & greet" session at the Garrett College Art Gallery at the McHenry campus. The authors and workshop participants will travel to Evergreen Heritage Center near Mt. Savage on Saturday, July 9, for a tour and writing session centered on that historic landmark.

A "meet-the-writers" session, free and open to the general public, will occur at 7:30 p.m. Saturday evening at the Garrett College auditorium. On Sunday, July 10, a visit to the Garrett County Historical Society Museum and the Oakland Train Station, both located in Oakland, will close out the workshop.

The deadline for registration for this July session of the Mountain Maryland Writers Institute is 4 p.m. on Wednesday, July 6. It is open to participants 18 years of age and older.

"An August session of the Mountain Maryland Writers Institute, with a theme of 'Poetry, Screen, Stage, and Mystery,' will be held Aug, 5-7," said Youse. "Information about the professional faculty and content of this session will be forthcoming."

For more information about the July or August writing sessions and/or to register for a workshop, persons are invited to contact Garrett College at 301-387-3330 or send an email to avs@garrettcollege.edu.

Mountain Maryland Music Institute To Feature Local Educator, Musician

DEBI BEACHY

Debi Beachy, local educator and accomplished musician, will lead the Mountain Maryland Music Institute's second session. This session will focus on vocal and choral elements, and is designed for youth ages 12 – 17. The session is scheduled for July 18 – 22 and will be held on the McHenry campus of Garrett College.

A West Virginia native, Beachy has been a choral music educator for over 16 years. She attended Alderson Broaddus University, where she earned a bachelor of arts degree in music education with an emphasis in piano. In 2006, she earned a master's degree in music education with an emphasis in choral conducting from West Virginia University.

Beachy has led middle and high school choral ensembles in Kentucky, West Virginia, Illinois, and Maryland. For the past 10 years, she has served as a music teacher for the Garrett County Public School System, where she has been the choral director at both Northern and Southern Garrett high schools, was instrumental in developing and implementing a new piano course, and teaches elementary music at both Accident and Friendsville elementary schools. She is also the choral director at Frostburg United Methodist Church, where she has served for the past 13 years.

As a performer, Beachy has been involved with the Scholars of St. Cecilia, a vocal ensemble associated with Mountainside Baroque in Cumberland, and the Garrett Choral Society of Oakland.

"It is so rewarding for me," she said, "to see a young person improve his or her technical knowledge and artistic appreciation for music, and to develop the self-confidence and teamwork encouraged by singing, particularly in a choral group."

According to the college's Mountain Maryland Music Institute director, Dr. Sean Beachy, a third and final session is scheduled for July 25 – 29 at the McHenry campus. This session is designed for middle school youth who play any instrument and with any level of ability. Both day commuter and overnight residential options are available for enrollment in these music learning experiences.

Through the Community Trust Foundation, a large number of scholarships completely funding the cost of day-camp attendance have been made available to both Garrett and Allegany county residents. Individuals seeking to register, apply for a scholarship, or to find more information about the Mountain Maryland Music Institute is invited to contact Garrett College at 301-387-3330 or via email at avs@garrettcollege.edu.

Participants For Maker Fest Now Being Sought

Garrett College is looking for local and regional makers to be a part of the second annual Mountain Maker Fest, which is scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 13, at the CTTC building in Accident.

A maker is defined by festival organizers as anyone who creates things, from electronics, food, LEGOs, wood, paper, robots, metal, and more, for fun or for profit. Makers include hobbyists, artisans, micro-businesses and "do-it-yourselfers" (DIY) who are creators and innovators. DIY can stand for everything from baking a cake to performing a dance to creating handmade products like jewelry, arts or crafts, and even robots and 3-D printers.

The maker movement is also tied closely to the popular acronym S.T.E.A.M., which stands for science, technology, engineering, art/artisanship, and math.

"The movement is especially tied to technology, engineering, and the arts and is perfect for students and all those interested in pursuing creative hobbies and business ideas," said Sarah Myers, co-director of the Mountain Maker Fest, who is an entrepreneur and a maker herself along with her duties at Garrett College.

"There are many people involved in innovation and creative endeavors in the region, and we hope to bring them all together to share, interact and explore," she continued. "The inaugural event was a success, with over 400 makers and attendees, and we hope to exceed that this year. We want anyone involved in creating to strongly consider becoming a participant. Not only will they meet like-minded folks, but they will get to share and discuss their craft, and if those who are business persons will get to spread the word and, it is hoped, sell some of their creations."

Myers went on to say that the maker movement is an evolution of millions of people across the world who are making products for themselves, their family, or to give or sell to others. Some even start their own small businesses dedicated to creating and selling self-made products.

"New tools and technologies are making the building of things easier than ever before," she said. "Makers will continue to be found in fields ranging from food to crafts to technology. Together, they will continue to innovate and build new things."

Mike Tumbarello, co-director of the fest, added, "The maker movement is alive and well in Garrett County, with numerous creative individuals and small businesses. All these efforts allow people to reach their full potential, hone their skills, and maybe even prepare for jobs or small-business ownership. The maker movement is especially relevant for students who hope to better understand S.T.E.A.M components and gain insight into future opportunities for fun, learning, and profit."

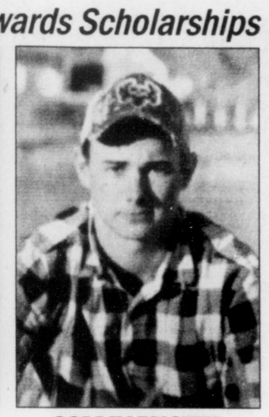

The second annual Mountain Maker Fest will be held from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. on Aug. 13. It is a free, voluntary contribution event for attendees and is suitable for all ages. Participants are encouraged to take part in the maker movement, and participate in hands-on demonstrations and activities that will take place.

The fest is the latest in the Power of Possibilities series, and is sponsored by Garrett College, the Garrett College Center for Entrepreneurship and Innovation, and the Greater Cumberland Committee. To learn more about the second annual Mountain Maker Fest and how to participate as an attendee, hobbyist, or vendor, persons are invited to go online to www.4ruralsuccess.com or contact Mike Tumbarello at 301-387-3167 or Sarah Myers at 301-387-3771.

THUNDER CLOUDS
by Dr. Thomas Sheahen

Q. Your explanation of how fluffy white clouds form was helpful, but how do the really big clouds that cause thunderstorms form?

A. The key point to understand is that the Earth's atmosphere is a gigantic machine that transports heat from the surface to high altitudes, where that energy is radiated away into space. The details of how that happens are intricate, and the several equations that govern the processes are nonlinear. That's a recipe for chaos – where chaos is a precise mathematical term meaning that any predictions are unlikely to be very reliable.

As explained in previous columns, convection carries warm air upward, and it cools as it expands. If it weren't for the water in the air, we'd just say "so what?" about that air movement. However, H_2O has the very significant property that it can change phase, from gas to liquid to solid. At each of those transitions, there is a latent heat released.

At high altitude, the conversion of H_2O gas into liquid water releases a lot of energy which goes into heating up the nitrogen and oxygen of the atmosphere. By around 30,000 feet altitude, the liquid H_2O has frozen into solid (snowflakes), and a little more latent heat is released in that transition.

Numerical values make all the difference. Water has a very large latent heat of vaporization = 540 calories/gram. As you've surely noticed when boiling a pot of water, it takes a long time sitting on the burner for the all the water to boil away. Water is a truly exceptional substance in that regard. (If you were boiling gold [at 2,660° C] the heat of vaporization would be only 377 cal./gm.) So when H_2O condenses from gas to liquid, 540 cal./gm. is released and goes into making N_2 and O_2 move a little faster.

Forming really big cumulonimbus clouds is simply the continuation of this process of depositing heat. As the hours go by on a hot summer day, incoming sunlight heats the surface, and rising warm air (convection) carries heat upward, where gaseous H_2O condenses and forms clouds, releasing heat. Still more condensation darkens the clouds. The heated air continues to rise, carrying the clouds upward even higher, sometimes reaching 50,000 feet. Those are cumulonimbus clouds, the conditions for a thunderstorm.

The time for this process is limited, because in the late afternoon the input of heat from the sun diminishes, and so the energy driving the "big machine" subsides. The Earth, which is spinning on its axis, is always striving toward equilibrium, but never actually reaches equilibrium. So every weather phenomenon is a transient event.

Whether a thundercloud rains where you're standing, or moves on farther and soaks somebody else, is very hard to predict. It depends on the delicate balance of heat and condensed H_2O (ice) at high altitudes, amid variable strong winds. That's why meteorologists "get paid the big bucks." Predicting weather is as much art as science, and some companies are really good at it. Big computer models crank out results, but smart forecasters take them with caution, and add their own judgment and experience when making a prediction. They refer to data from the past when similar weather conditions occurred, and use that for guidance.

The task of predicting the climate is a cousin of the art of weather prediction. It is far more complicated, because the oceans, the atmosphere, and the land all interact. Computer models called general circulation models are employed, but the governing equations are still coupled nonlinear differential equations, which are chaotic. Because it is so extremely difficult to model the behavior of clouds (for instance, mountain ranges are able to produce their own clouds), no model is very dependable. Actual data taken by satellites are reliable, and no computer model even comes close to matching the satellite measurements. Therefore, experienced atmospheric scientists agree that long-range prediction of climate is impossible.

Dr. Sheahen lives at Deep Creek Lake and has taught physics at Garrett College. Persons wishing to submit questions for this column may email them to newsroom@therepublicannews.com.

Let's Get Down To Business!

This is a feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

Fun Unlimited

Fun Unlimited is an amusement center focused on providing affordable entertainment for all ages.

"Are you tired of loading up a card with $20 or purchasing $20 in tokens only to have the little one return in less than 30 minutes asking for more?" said the owner on the website. "How about the fact that amusement centers cater only to kids? What about the adults who earned the money?? We have a vintage arcade museum with arcade and social games from the 1960s and 1970s to entertain the adults while the kids enjoy the lower level with 64 classic and modern games including 10 real pinball machines."

All games are set to free play with tiered pricing. The first hour is $15. After the hour, the time is pro-rated by the minute at $10 for the second hour and $5 per hour thereafter.

Another unique feature is a day pass that allows customers to come and go as much as they please all day for $30.

In addition, one free parent can be admitted per child under 16.

"When was the last time you were rewarded for being the responsible parent and got to enjoy yourself for free?" the owner noted.

The business also features food prepared in a clean, open-design kitchen with brand new equipment.

"I designed this kitchen to be wide open and hide nothing from onlookers," the owner said. "Ever wonder what goes on behind that swinging kitchen door with the little circular window? You really don't want to know! I might be a little OCD about keeping everything inspection clean, but I know you will appreciate that attention to detail when you order your food."

Every item on the menu is only $2, including huge pizza slices, chicken quesadilla slices, and quarter pound Hebrew National hot dogs.

The website claims the best pizza in town with its signature five-cheese pizza and twice basted garlic butter crust.

"The crust so good, you can't wait to reach the back of the slice!" the owner said. "I went out of my way to make sure that I provided the most bang for the buck and made the least profit off food items while still going over and above all normal expectations for the food. "I am trying to provide a perk to the customer who is paying for games in the form of the best food around for the least price."

To-go orders are offered for non-playing customers.

In the month of July, Fun Unlimited's outdoor activities will include several sets of corn hole boards, ladder ball, and ring toss. Later this summer and fall, plans are being made for a 30' x 30' outdoor remote control car racetrack with a podium in the center for observation, tunnels to go under, high banks to race around, and ramps to jump over. Cars will be provided, or guests can bring their own.

Another future plan is for outdoor duckpin bowling, created through the owner's own design that will have 40' lanes, elevated two feet so there is no need to bend over, an automatic ball return, and string pinsetters.

All of these activities will be included in the standard pricing, but there may be a special "Yard Pass" rate for outdoor activities at a lesser price.

An internet cafe is another feature of Fun Unlimited with cozy couches, acoustic music, and a fireplace for ambiance.

Currently, the business is open daily from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. It is located along Route 42, right at the intersection of Route 219 (Garrett Highway) and Route 42. After the summer, the shop will remain open Friday through Sunday, and also possibly through the week depending on demand.

The owner's manager, B.J. Sharpless, has years of experience in maintaining arcades.

"What I lack in experience, I make up for in enthusiasm and common sense," the owner said. "I have been coming to the lake for the last eight years to enjoy my property. I felt the amusement arcades here were only catering to tourists and not locals, and then only to children. I wanted to appeal to both tourists and locals, to kids and adults."

The owner noted that he is very detail oriented, and has almost a compulsion for cleanliness and order. He designed the facility's kitchens and bathrooms for ease of cleaning and sterility.

West Virginia Floods

Pastor Nathan Hall served as senior camp counselor at Camp Luther, which was held June 19 to 25 in Cowen, W. Va. When he attempted to return to camp following his officiation of the funeral for Dot Teets, he found flooded, blocked roads in that area and was unable to reach the camp. After spending a night at a motel, he connected with the staff and campers, who had all been safely evacuated to a nearby church on a hilltop.

This week, Pastor Nathan and Laura Hall led a mission trip from Emmanuel to Clendenin to begin muck cleanup work in the area. This was the first group from the West Virginia-Western Maryland Synod of the ELCA to do cleanup work following the floods. The trip was sponsored by Community Lutheran Partners, a social ministry outreach of the synod.

Emmanuel is serving as a collection site for supplies. Supplies needed at this time include mops, brooms, large trash bags, bleach, scrub brushes, buckets, rubber or work gloves, pet food and supplies, shovels, rakes, and water hoses.

Donations of supplies are also being collected by St. John's Lutheran Church of Meadow Mountain. The contact person at St. John's is Linda Thomas.

Note from Marvin

A photograph taken by Howie McCormick of a mud-drenched American flag has been widely "shared" this week on social media. The photo, which was taken at Camden-on-Gauley, is a powerful image. This flag, soaked with West Virginia mud, was still flying and has beauty and character which would be impossible for a clean, pristine flag to possess.

Since July 4, 1776, the U.S. flag has been through the hells of wars, storms, massacres, disasters, and floods. Through it all, the flag has continued to represent the freedom that Americans will be celebrating this weekend. Take time this weekend to remember those who made it possible to live in a land where you can enjoy the freedom represented by the flag.

Independence Day Travel Volume Projected To Be Highest On Record

AAA projects nearly 43 million Americans will travel this Independence Day weekend, an increase of 1.3 percent over that of last year's holiday. The 2016 forecast represents the highest 4th of July travel volume on record and 5 million more travelers compared to that for Memorial Day weekend.

The holiday travel period is defined as Thursday, June 30, to Monday, July 4. This is the fourth consecutive year that the travel period encompasses five days. A six-day travel period occurs only when the holiday falls on a Wednesday, which last happened in 2012.

AAA is predicting a record number of Marylanders will travel as well, with close to 890,000 residents expected to get away, mirroring the nationwide percentage increase of 1.3 percent compared to the number for the 2015 holiday.

"With schools now out of session, 4th of July holiday travel is expected to be even more robust than it was Memorial Day weekend, particularly since gas prices continue to remain at their lowest level in over a decade," said Ragina Cooper Averella, public and government affairs manager for AAA Mid-Atlantic. "A more confident consumer and rising economic activity are also offsetting a cooling labor market to help boost holiday travel."

Based on the robust travel forecast for Memorial Day weekend and now the record high volume expected for the July 4th holiday, AAA is anticipating 2016 to be a record-breaking year for summertime travel.

"This trend is welcome news for the travel industry, as well as a sign that people are taking to the highways and skies like never before," said Averella.

While average gasoline prices nationwide and in Maryland are approximately 60 cents per gallon higher since bottoming out at $1.70 per gallon in February, motorists are still paying lower prices than they were last year at this time, and the lowest prices at the pump since 2005.

AAA estimates that drivers nationwide have saved approximately $20 billion on gasoline so far this year, compared to that for the same period in 2015, which has made travel more affordable than in recent years.

"Drivers hitting the road for the holiday are poised to have even more change in their pocket, as prices at the pump have been trending downward since mid-June," Averella said. "Retail costs may have peaked for the summer. Gasoline supplies appear to be meeting the growing summertime demand, and as a result prices have been remaining relatively steady lately."

However, AAA is reminding drivers to keep in mind that prices at the pump are always subject to vary, based upon any geo-political or weather-related event that could disrupt the supply of oil or gasoline.

Motorists can find the lowest gas prices in their area or along their travel route online at AAA.com/fuelfinder.

According to AAA's Leisure Travel Index, average airfares for the top 40 domestic flight routes will be 9 percent less this Independence Day, with an average round-trip ticket costing $207. Hotel costs have fallen slightly compared to those of last Independence Day. AAA Three-Diamond rated hotels will average $185, while a AAA Two-Diamond Rated hotel will average $144 nightly. Daily car rental rates will average $75, 6 percent more than last year.

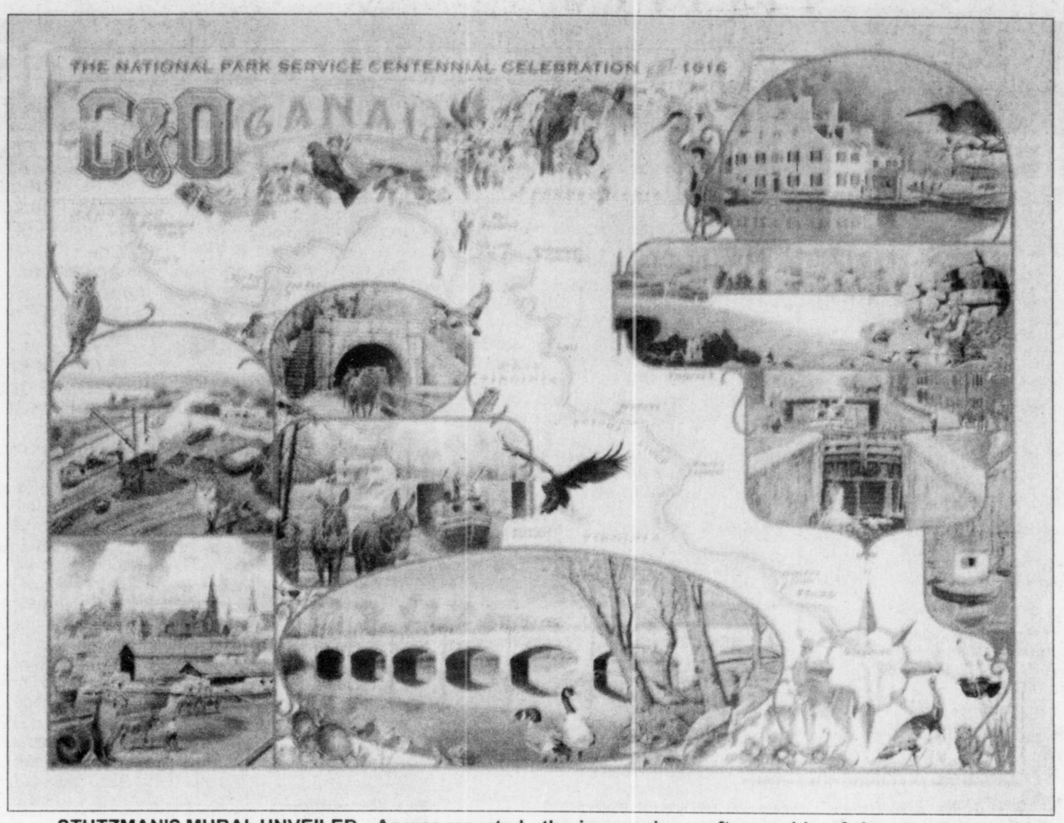

AAA anticipates coming to the rescue of more than 370,000 motorists nationwide during the Independence Day holiday travel period, with the primary reasons being dead batteries, lockouts, and flat tires.

AAA Mid-Atlantic anticipates coming to the aid of over 25,000 disabled motorists in the club's five-state and Washington, D.C., region, with nearly 6,700 of those motorists in Maryland.

AAA recommends that motorists check the condition of their battery and tires before heading out on a road trip, and have vehicles inspected by a trusted repair shop, such as one of the nearly 7,000 AAA-approved auto repair facilities across North America or at one of AAA Mid-Atlantic's 28 car care centers, including nine locations in Maryland. Members can download the AAA Mobile app, visit AAA.com, or call 1-800-AAA-HELP to request roadside assistance.

Before setting out for Independence Day, travelers are encouraged to download the free AAA Mobile app for iPhone, iPad, and Android at AAA.com/mobile.

All travelers can use the app to map a route, find lowest gas prices, and search for AAA-approved auto repair facilities, while AAA members can access exclusive member discounts, make travel arrangements, and request AAA roadside assistance.

STUTZMAN'S MURAL UNVEILED – As was reported in last week's issue, the Heritage Days Festival in Cumberland was held earlier this month, and the event included the official unveiling of a mural painted by Mtn. Lake Park artist Mark Stutzman, pictured above. The work is located in the C&O Canal Visitors Center, and celebrates the National Park Service Centennial. The mural depicts a number of key landmarks along the canal, which the artist viewed on special excursions hosted by the C&O Canal Association. Those excursions went on for several days, so that Stutzman could experience the canal firsthand and take pictures to reference for the final painting. The artist said he was inspired by more than just the history of the canal, but also by the impressive craftsmanship of the structures, which include aqueducts and lock houses. He also noted how the natural habitats that surround the canal have broad appeal to nature lovers. Stutzman incorporated the nature aspect with man-made structures as a way for the painting to reach a larger audience. During his closing remarks, the artist also retired the paintbrush used for the painting and donated it to the association. Following the unveiling, Stutzman greeted guests and signed posters and postcards. Poster reproductions and postcards of the mural are available at the gift shops along the canal. Online sales will be available at a later date through the C&O Canal Association.
